- A. Choose a single ideal milestone to perform all validation activities.
- B. Ensure independence between those eliciting and those validating requirements.
- C. Ensure identification and correction of defects are done by different workers.
- D. Identify the most important view and perform validation only from it.

Answer: B,C

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation From Exact Extract:

Good validation practice includes separating responsibilities: reviewers focus on detecting defects, while others propose and implement corrections, reducing bias and conflicts of interest-supporting A.

Independence between elicitation and validation roles increases objectivity and helps expose assumptions missed during elicitation, so C is also recommended. Validation should incorporate multiple views (business, technical, test, operations), not just one, making B incorrect. Validation is not a one-off event; it should be repeated at successive milestones as requirements evolve, so D conflicts with guidance. Therefore A and C are the correct practices.
