ISTQB Certified Tester Foundation Level (CTFL v4.0) Sample Questions (Q349-Q354):

NEW QUESTION # 349
Which ONE of the following is a GOOD testing practice that is INDEPENDENT of the chosen SDLC (Software Development Life Cycle) model?

- A. Testers are involved in reviewing work products as soon as the final version of this documentation is available so that this earlier testing and defect detection can support the "shift-left" strategy.
- B. Different test levels have specific and overlapping test objectives, allowing tests to be appropriate to specific test object types while managing redundancy.

- C. Test analysis and design for a specific test level begin during the corresponding development phase of the SDLC, allowing testing to follow the principle of late testing.
- D. For every software development activity, there is a corresponding testing activity, ensuring that all development activities are subject to quality assurance.

Answer: B

Explanation:
Comprehensive and Detailed In-Depth Explanation:Different test levels (unit, integration, system, acceptance) have specific objectives while sometimes overlapping to ensure comprehensive testing (D).
Option A contradicts shift-left principles, B encourages late testing (which is ineffective), and C incorrectly assumes that all development activities require direct test actions.

NEW QUESTION # 350
Which of the following statements best describes the way in which decision coverage is measured?

- A. Measured as the number of decision outcomes executed by the tests, divided by the total number of decision outcomes in the test object.
- B. It is not possible to accurately measure decision coverage.
- C. Measured as the number of statements executed by the tests, divided by the total number of executable statements in the code.
- D. Measured as the number of lines of code executed by the tests, divided by the total number of lines of code in the test object.

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 351
Which ONE of the following options MOST ACCURATELY describes the activities of "testing" and "debugging"?

- A. Testing triggers a defect that is caused by an error in the software, whereas debugging is concerned with finding the causes of this defect, analyzing these causes, and eliminating them.
- B. Testing triggers a failure that is caused by a defect in the software, whereas debugging is concerned with finding the causes of this failure (defects), analyzing these causes, and reproducing them.
- C. Testing triggers a failure that is caused by a defect in the software, whereas debugging is concerned with finding the causes of this failure (defects), analyzing these causes, and eliminating them.
- D. Testing identifies a defect that is caused by an error in the software, whereas debugging is concerned with finding the causes of this defect, analyzing these causes, and eliminating them.

Answer: C

Explanation:
Comprehensive and Detailed In-Depth Explanation:
Testing and debugging are separate but related activities. Testing executes the software to identify failures that result from defects (A). Debugging is the developer's responsibility and involves finding the cause of a failure (defect), analyzing it, and fixing the defect. The ISTQB syllabus explicitly differentiates these activities. Testing does not modify the software, whereas debugging does.

NEW QUESTION # 352
Which ONE of the following statements is correct?

- A. There may be legal issues in performing static testing on a commercially available executable library.
- B. Difficult to interpret work products are best tested using static analysis.
- C. Static analysis can be used against a work product containing unstructured artifacts
- D. Test cases can be tested using static testing techniques but not the models

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 353

Which ONE of the following options identifies the perspectives through which a collective authorship process generates a shared vision of user stories?

- A. Business, architecture, and testing
- B. Business, development, and acceptance testing
- C. Product owner, development, and testing
- D. Business, development, and testing

Answer: D

Explanation:
Comprehensive and Detailed In-Depth Explanation:
Business, development, and testing (C) are the three key perspectives in agile user story refinement:
Business (Product Owner, Stakeholders) - Ensures the story aligns with user needs and business goals.
Development (Developers) - Provides insights on feasibility and technical constraints.
Testing (Testers, QA) - Ensures testability, acceptance criteria, and risk identification.
(A) is incorrect because the product owner is part of business stakeholders.
(B) is incorrect because architecture is part of development, but not the primary driver of user stories.
(D) is incorrect because acceptance testing is a process, not a stakeholder group.
A cross-functional team collaboration ensures well-defined, testable, and feasible user stories.
