IBM watsonx Generative AI Engineer - Associate Sample Questions (Q347-Q352):

NEW QUESTION # 347

You are using IBM's Tuning Studio to fine-tune a large-scale foundation model for a customer service chatbot. The goal is to optimize the model for performance in handling a wide variety of customer queries while minimizing computational costs. Before making any changes, you want to understand how Tuning Studio can help achieve your optimization goals.

Which of the following is the most significant benefit provided by Tuning Studio when optimizing a generative AI model?

- A. Tuning Studio provides real-time monitoring of model performance metrics during the fine-tuning process, allowing you to adjust hyperparameters effectively.
- B. Tuning Studio automatically deploys the fine-tuned model to production environments without requiring further testing.
- C. Tuning Studio allows the user to implement custom model architectures from scratch to meet specific task requirements.
- D. Tuning Studio reduces the dataset size needed for training by implementing automated data augmentation strategies.

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 348

You are working on a project that involves deploying a series of prompt templates for a large language model on the IBM Watsonx platform. The team has requested a system that supports prompt versioning so that updates to the prompts can be tracked and tested over time.

Which of the following is the most important consideration when planning prompt versioning for deployment?

- A. Version control should focus exclusively on the syntactical structure of the prompts, as changes to prompt content rarely impact the model's performance.
- B. Each version of the prompt must have a unique identifier that can be referenced during model inference, to avoid conflicting results from different prompt versions.
- C. The versioning system should automatically downgrade to the previous prompt version if the model returns a confidence score below a certain threshold during inference.
- D. Prompts should be stored in a proprietary IBM format, as other formats are not compatible with the Watsonx platform when using versioning.

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 349

A team is using IBM InstructLab to customize a large language model (LLM) to automate responses in a healthcare chatbot application. The team wants to ensure the chatbot can handle user queries accurately, based on domain-specific instructions.

Which of the following correctly describes the role of the instruction optimization phase within the InstructLab workflow?

- A. Instruction optimization refines prompts to improve the model's ability to follow task-specific instructions.
- B. Instruction optimization focuses on improving the dataset's quality by removing outliers and noise.
- C. Instruction optimization involves retraining the model on a larger dataset for better accuracy.

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 350

You are creating a prompt template for a generative AI model that helps technical support staff troubleshoot customer issues based on symptoms provided. The goal is to generate a clear, step-by-step diagnostic process.

What elements would improve the effectiveness of the template? (Select two)

- A. Set a high temperature value to explore more creative diagnostic approaches
- B. Incorporate complex technical jargon to ensure expert-level responses
- C. Provide explicit instructions to break the response into steps
- D. Ask the model to generate multiple diagnostic paths for each issue
- E. Include an instruction to ask clarifying questions when the issue is unclear

Answer: C,E

NEW QUESTION # 351

In the context of Retrieval-Augmented Generation (RAG) models, embeddings play a crucial role in retrieving relevant documents. Which of the following best describes the purpose of embeddings in GenAI, particularly within a RAG system?

- A. Embeddings are used to compress large documents into a smaller format, enabling faster storage and retrieval within a RAG system.
- B. Embeddings are dense vector representations of words, phrases, or entire documents that capture semantic relationships, making it easier to find similar content in the knowledge base during retrieval.

- C. Embeddings are primarily used to measure the grammatical correctness of the generated responses by checking the sentence structure in the generated text.
- D. Embeddings represent each word in a fixed-length vector based on its semantic meaning, which allows for precise retrieval of documents by directly matching words between the query and the documents.

Answer: B
