6. Which two NetApp products offer hardware encryption? (Choose two.)
- A. NetApp Storage Encryption (NSE)
  - B. NVMe self-encrypting drives (SED)
  - C. NetApp Aggregate Encryption (NAE)
  - D. NetApp Volume Encryption (NVE)

Answer: A

Explanation:

NetApp Storage Encryption (NSE) and NVMe self-encrypting drives (SED) are two NetApp products that offer hardware encryption. Hardware encryption is a method of encrypting data at the disk level using a hardware-accelerated mechanism. NSE requires all drives in an HA pair to be purpose-built, self-encrypting drives. These drives perform the data encryption themselves through a hardware-accelerated mechanism. Because of the hardware acceleration, NSE systems usually outperform NVE systems when encrypting data<sup>1</sup>. NVMe self-encrypting drives (SED) are a type of NSE drives that use the NVMe protocol to provide high performance and low latency. NVMe SEDs are supported on select NetApp AFF systems<sup>2</sup>.

7. Which NetApp BlueXP product enables a customer to provide read and write access to remote Windows servers from a centralized data store?
- A. BlueXP copy and sync
  - B. BlueXP edge caching
  - C. BlueXP tiering
  - D. Cloud Volumes ONTAP

Answer: B

Explanation:

BlueXP edge caching is a NetApp BlueXP product that enables a customer to provide read and write access to remote Windows servers from a centralized data store. BlueXP edge caching allows you to cache data from a BlueXP volume or a Cloud Volume ONTAP system on a local Windows server, which improves the performance and availability of your applications. You can also sync the cached data back to the source volume, ensuring data consistency and protection.
