NEW QUESTION # 156

What theory emphasizes the role of social interaction in learning and posits that knowledge is co-constructed through collaborative dialogue among individuals?

- A. constructivism

- B. behaviorism
- C. phenomenological

Answer: A

Explanation:

Constructivism is a theory of learning that emphasizes the active role of learners in constructing their own understanding through social interaction and dialogue. Knowledge is seen as co-constructed, particularly in the social constructivist tradition influenced by theorists like Vygotsky. "Constructivism posits that knowledge is created collaboratively and contextually through meaningful social interaction." Reference: Helwig, A. A. (2020). CPCE Study Guide and Review; Gladding, S. T. (2018). Counseling: A Comprehensive Profession (8th Edition).

NEW QUESTION # 157

A counselor administers a test twice to the same client and obtains very similar scores. This is an example of

- A. Inter-rater reliability
- B. Validity
- C. Test-retest reliability

Answer: C

Explanation:

Test-retest reliability refers to the consistency of a test over time; when a test is administered to the same person on two different occasions and yields similar results, it demonstrates high test-retest reliability. This indicates stability of measurement across time. Reference: Helwig, A. A. (2020). CPCE Study Guide and Review; Groth-Mamat, G. (2009). Handbook of Psychological Assessment.

NEW QUESTION # 158

The belief that a test can obtain psychological information about a person, without the person knowing the information is being obtained, gives rise to the ethical consideration known as

- A. invasion of privacy.
- B. misappropriation.
- C. breach of confidentiality.

Answer: A

Explanation:

When an assessment or test gathers psychological information about an individual without their knowledge or informed consent, it raises the ethical issue of invasion of privacy. This consideration requires professionals to ensure that individuals are aware of and have agreed to the assessment process.

NEW QUESTION # 159

What research term refers to the degree to which a study can establish a causal relationship between the independent and dependent variables, while ruling out alternative explanations for the study results?

- A. interrater reliability
- B. internal validity
- C. internal consistency

Answer: B

Explanation:

Internal validity is the extent to which a study can demonstrate a causal relationship between variables and rule out other possible explanations for the observed outcomes. High internal validity means the changes in the dependent variable are due to manipulation of the independent variable.

NEW QUESTION # 160

A client states, "What's bothering me is that I might have a problem with drinking. I don't think I am an alcoholic or anything, but I have missed a lot of work due to hangovers." The counselor responds, "We have some videos on alcohol abuse that would be good for you to take a look at." In this illustration, the counselor has made an empathy error known as

- A. advice-giving.
- B. discordance.
- C. improper interpretation.

Answer: A

Explanation:

In this scenario, the counselor's response skips over the client's feelings and self-reflection, immediately offering advice and resources. This is an example of the advice-giving empathy error, where the counselor provides a solution instead of first demonstrating understanding or empathy. Effective counseling requires exploring the client's emotions and ambivalence before offering suggestions.
