Adobe Experience Manager DevOps Engineer Expert Sample Questions (Q143-Q148):

NEW QUESTION # 143

A DevOps engineer needs to set up a service-oriented integration with Adobe Target in Adobe I/O CLI. Which authentication method should be used?

- A. Basic auth
- B. JWT
- C. OAuth 2.0

Answer: C

Explanation:

For headless, service-to-service integrations via Adobe I/O (Adobe Developer Console), JWT (JSON Web Tokens) was historically the standard. However, Adobe officially deprecated the Service Account (JWT) credentials in favor of the new OAuth 2.0 Server-to-Server credential implementation. Because Adobe exams are updated to reflect current platform deprecations and best practices, OAuth 2.0 is the correct, modern standard for programmatic authentication without a user interface.

NEW QUESTION # 144

A DevOps developer needs to test virtual host configuration on Dispatcher. Which command should the DevOps engineer use?

- A. `curl -H "Host: origin-mysite.adobeqms.com" mysite.com`
- B. `curl --verbose --header origin-mysite.adobeqms.com`
- C. `curl -H "Dispatch: mysite.com" origin-mysite.adobeqms.com`
- D. `curl -H "Host: mysite.com" origin-mysite.adobeqms.com`

Answer: D

Explanation:

When troubleshooting routing or Virtual Host configurations on a Dispatcher (which is typically an Apache or Nginx web proxy), the proxy relies on the Host HTTP header to determine which farm or server block should process the request. Using cURL, you can bypass DNS layers and test the origin server directly by specifying the target IP or default hostname (e.g., `origin-mysite.adobeqms.com`) while explicitly passing the desired Virtual Host name via the Host header (`-H "Host: mysite.com"`). This forces the Dispatcher to process the request as if it were traffic coming for `mysite.com`.

NEW QUESTION # 145

A DevOps engineer is managing an AEM as a Cloud Service Sites environment for a customer. After development tested the Maven build locally, a new development pipeline is executed. The development pipeline fails in the build steps with the following errors:

[Queue Processor for Subscriber agent forwardPublisherSubscriber] org.apache.jackrabbit.vault.fs.io.Importer Error while processing...

Caused by: org.apache.sling.api.resource.PersistenceException: Unable to commit changes to session.

Caused by: javax.jcr.AccessDeniedException: OakAccess0000: Access denied Message: Error trying to extract package at path /etc/packages/com.myapp/myapp-base.content.zip.

What should the DevOps engineer do?

- A. Restart the `sling-distribution-importer` bundle via the OSGi Web Console.
- B. Add ACLs for the `sling-distribution-importer` user via User Admin.
- C. Add ACLs for the `sling-distribution-importer` user via the `repoint` script.
- D. Add ACLs for the `sling-distribution-importer` user via `curl` command.

Answer: C

Explanation:

In AEM as a Cloud Service, Sling Content Distribution is responsible for moving content and packages between tiers. If the `sling-distribution-importer` system user lacks the necessary Access Control Lists (ACLs) to write to specific paths, it will throw an `AccessDeniedException` during package installation. Because AEMaaS environments are ephemeral and access to traditional local consoles (like User Admin or CRXDE) is restricted or wiped out during updates, all system user creation and ACL configurations must be declared as code. The DevOps engineer must configure these permissions using OSGi factory configurations containing OSGi `Repoint` scripts.

NEW QUESTION # 146

Which component should be configured in Apache to enable Dispatcher in AEM?

- A. `mod_cache.so`
- B. `mod_rewrite.so`
- C. `mod_proxy.so`
- D. `mod_dispatcher.so`

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 147

A project is in UAT, and the DevOps engineer needs to stress test the author instance.
What should the DevOps engineer run?

- A. proxy.jar
- B. jmeter.jar
- C. rlog.jar
- D. toughday2.jar

Answer: D
