- A. Let team members know the questions prior to the assessment.
- B. Ensure confidentiality and non-attribution of team members.
- C. Understand that testing is more important than interviews.
- D. Interview groups of people to get collective answers.

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 52

Which method facilitates understanding by analyzing gathered artifacts as evidence?

- A. Behavior
- B. Interview
- C. Examine
- D. Test

Answer: C

Explanation:

The CMMC Assessment Process uses three methods: Examine, Interview, and Test. The method that involves analyzing artifacts (documents, system configurations, records, logs, etc.) is Examine.

Supporting Extracts from Official Content:

* CMMC Assessment Guide: "Examine consists of reviewing, inspecting, or analyzing assessment objects such as documents, system configurations, or other artifacts to evaluate compliance." Why Option B is Correct:

* Examine = analyzing artifacts.

* Interview = discussions with personnel.

* Test = executing technical checks.

* Behavior is not an assessment method.

NEW QUESTION # 53

A C3PAO has completed a Limited Practice Deficiency Correction Evaluation following an assessment of an OSC. The Lead Assessor has recommended moving deficiencies to a POA&M. but the OSC will remain on an Interim Certification. What is the MINIMUM number of practices that must be scored as MET to initiate this course of action?

- A. 80 practices
- B. 110 practices
- C. 100 practices
- D. 88 practices

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 54

An assessor is collecting affirmations. So far, the assessor has collected interviews, demonstrations, emails, messaging, and presentations. Are these appropriate approaches to collecting affirmations?

- A. Yes, the affirmations collected by the assessor are all appropriate.
- B. No, messaging is not an appropriate affirmation.
- C. No, emails are not appropriate affirmations.
- D. Yes, the affirmations collected by the assessor are all appropriate, as are screenshots.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Understanding Affirmations in a CMMC Assessment Affirmations are a type of evidence collected during a CMMC assessment to confirm compliance with required practices. Affirmations are typically collected from:

#Interviews- Conversations with personnel implementing security practices.

#Demonstrations- Observing the practice in action.

#Emails and Messaging- Written communications confirming compliance efforts.

#Presentations- Documents or briefings explaining security implementations.

#Screenshots- Visual evidence of system configurations and security measures.

* The CMMC Assessment Process (CAP) Guide states that assessors may collect affirmations via various communication methods, including emails, messaging, and presentations.

* Screenshots are an additional valid form of objective evidence to confirm compliance.

* Options A and B are incorrect because emails and messaging are explicitly allowed forms of affirmation.

* Option C is incomplete because it does not mention screenshots, which are also considered valid evidence.

Why "Yes, the affirmations collected by the assessor are all appropriate, as are screenshots" is Correct?

Official References from CMMC 2.0 DocumentationFinal Verification and ConclusionThe correct answer is D. Yes, the affirmations collected by the assessor are all appropriate, as are screenshots. This aligns with CMMC 2.0 assessment procedures for collecting affirmations.
