NEW QUESTION # 47
Which of the following are characteristics of Formulas? (Choose 2)

- A. Highly reusable content
- B. Simple logic on a row-based operation
- C. Ease of use, self-service
- D. Attribute updated regularly

Answer: B,C

Explanation:
These are two characteristics of Formulas. Formulas are a feature that allows you to create custom fields in the data model using simple logic on a row-based operation. For example, you can use a formula to create a field that concatenates the first name and last name of an individual. Formulas are easy to use and self-service, meaning that you can create them without coding or complex queries. You can use formulas to enrich your data and create more meaningful segments and insights. References: Formulas

NEW QUESTION # 48
How can a consultant modify attribute names to match a naming convention in Cloud File Storage targets?

- A. Use a formula field to update the field name in an activation.
- B. Update attribute names in the data stream configuration.
- C. Set preferred attribute names when configuring activation.
- D. Update field names in the data model object.

Answer: C

Explanation:
A Cloud File Storage target is a type of data action target in Data Cloud that allows sending data to a cloud storage service such as Amazon S3 or Google Cloud Storage. When configuring an activation to a Cloud File Storage target, a consultant can modify the attribute names to match a naming convention by setting preferred attribute names in Data Cloud. Preferred attribute names are aliases that can be used to control the field names in the target file. They can be set for each attribute in the activation configuration, and they will override the default field names from the data model object. The other options are incorrect because they do not affect the field names in the target file. Using a formula field to update the field name in an activation will not change the field name, but only the field value. Updating attribute names in the data stream configuration will not affect the existing data lake objects or data model objects. Updating field names in the data model object will change the field names for all data sources and activations that use the object, which may not be desirable or consistent. NEW QUESTION # 49
An organization is looking to use Data Cloud to unify data across 5 Salesforce orgs, 2 Marketing Cloud accounts, 6 Amazon S3 Buckets, and 4 Personalization datasets. As far as connection limits are concerned, which platform is going to present a challenge?

- A. Salesforce CRM
- B. Amazon S3 Bucket
- C. Marketing Cloud
- D. Personalization

Answer: C

Explanation:
This platform is going to present a challenge in terms of connection limits for Data Cloud. Data Cloud supports up to 3 Marketing Cloud connections per org, which means that only 3 Marketing Cloud accounts can be connected as data sources or activation targets. The other platforms have higher or no limits for connections. References:https://help.salesforce.com/s/articleView?id=sf.c360_a_data_cloud_limits.
