ISA/IEC 62443 Cybersecurity Fundamentals Specialist Sample Questions (Q19-Q24):

NEW QUESTION # 19
Which is NOT a potential consequence for organizations that fail to prioritize control system security?

- A. Unauthorized access, theft, or misuse of data
- B. Violation of legal and regulatory requirements
- C. Personal injury
- D. Decreased energy consumption

Answer: D

Explanation:
Decreased energy consumption is not a consequence of poor control system security. In fact, security breaches often lead to increased (not decreased) energy consumption due to inefficiencies, system downtime, or damage. Real consequences of failing to prioritize control system security include personal injury (due to process hazards), unauthorized data access, theft or misuse, and violation of regulations (with possible legal penalties).
Reference: ISA/IEC 62443-1-1:2007, Section 4.4; ISA/IEC 62443-2-1:2009, Section 4.2.2 (Potential Consequences Table).

NEW QUESTION # 20
What does a demilitarized zone (DMZ) provide in network security?

- A. Increased bandwidth
- B. Simplified security architecture
- C. Secure data transfer
- D. Indirect access to the Internet

Answer: D

Explanation:
A demilitarized zone (DMZ) in network architecture provides indirect (controlled and monitored) access to the Internet or untrusted networks, usually by isolating publicly accessible services (like web servers) from internal control networks. This prevents direct exposure of sensitive IACS assets to external threats. While DMZs can support secure data transfer, their primary function is segmentation and indirect access.
Reference: ISA/IEC 62443-3-3:2013, Section 4.2.3; ISA/IEC 62443-1-1:2007, Section 3.2.6 (Network Security Architectures and DMZ).

NEW QUESTION # 21
What is one reason why IACS systems are highly vulnerable to attack?

- A. They often have unpatched software.
- B. They are isolated from all networks.
- C. They use the latest software updates regularly.
- D. They do not require patches.

Answer: A

Explanation:
Many Industrial Automation and Control Systems (IACS) are vulnerable because they run legacy software and are rarely patched, due to operational constraints like uptime requirements and fear of system disruption.
"IACS systems are often vulnerable due to the presence of legacy components, limited patching, and prolonged system lifespans without updates."
- ISA/IEC 62443-2-1:2010, Clause 4.4.3 - Patch Management
They are not always isolated (due to remote access, IIoT, etc.), and do not regularly implement the latest updates like IT systems.
References:
ISA/IEC 62443-2-1:2010 - Patch Management
ISA/IEC 62443-2-3:2015 - Patch Assessment and Deployment Challenges

NEW QUESTION # 22
Which of the following is NOT a general class of firewalls?

- A. Application proxy
- B. Network monitor
- C. Packet filter
- D. Stateful inspection

Answer: B

Explanation:
Packet filter, application proxy, and stateful inspection are all recognized types or classes of firewalls in both IT and industrial control environments. A network monitor, on the other hand, is not considered a firewall but rather a tool for observing and analyzing network traffic. It does not provide firewall-like controls for blocking or allowing traffic.
Reference: ISA/IEC 62443-3-3:2013, Section 4.2.3.3 ("Types of firewalls"); ISA/IEC 62443-1-1:2007, Section 3.2.6.

NEW QUESTION # 23
What are the two sublayers of Layer 2?
Available Choices (select all choices that are correct)

- A. OPC and DCOM
- B. LLC and MAC
- C. VLAN and VPN
- D. HIDS and NIDS

Answer: B

Explanation:
Layer 2 of the OSI model is the data link layer, which is responsible for transferring data frames between nodes on a network segment. The data link layer is divided into two sublayers: logical link control (LLC) and media access control (MAC). The LLC sublayer deals with issues common to both dedicated and broadcast links, such as framing, flow control, and error control. The MAC sublayer deals with issues specific to broadcast links, such as how to access the shared medium and avoid collisions. The LLC and MAC sublayers are not related to the ISA/IEC 62443 cybersecurity standards, which focus on the security of industrial automation and control systems (IACS).
