Cisco Designing Cisco Enterprise Wireless Networks Sample Questions (Q185-Q190):

NEW QUESTION # 185

An engineer must deploy a wireless network in an open-plan environment that has three SSIDs using the 5 GHz band and the channel width is set to 40 MHz. Co-channel interference must be reduced. Which two actions must be taken? (Choose two.)

- A. Reduce the power of the AP.
- B. Increase the number of SSIDs.
- C. Disable band steering.
- D. Increase channel bonding in the 2.4 GHz band to 40 MHz.
- E. Decrease channel bonding in the 5 GHz band to 20 MHz.

Answer: A,E

Explanation:

To reduce co-channel interference, it's beneficial to decrease channel bonding, which will increase the number of non-overlapping channels available. Reducing the power of the APs can also help minimize interference by reducing the range of each AP's signal, thereby reducing the chance of overlap.

NEW QUESTION # 186

An engineer is trying to configure the APs installed in a new auditorium to use 40 MHz channels with high data rates and lower TX power. The APs in the building hallway must use lower-density design settings configured for the rest of the building. Which two configurations achieve this design? (Choose two.)

- A. DCA
- B. RF protocol
- C. RRM
- D. TPC
- E. AP group

Answer: C,E

Explanation:

AP groups allow the engineer to apply different policies for APs in the auditorium versus those in the hallway. RRM (Radio Resource Management) can dynamically adjust the TX power and channel settings to optimize the wireless coverage and capacity.

NEW QUESTION # 187

A wireless deployment in a high-density environment is being used by vendors to process credit card payment transactions via handheld mobile scanners. The scanners are having problems roaming between access points in the environment. Which feature on the wireless controller should have been incorporated in the design?

- A. AP Heartbeat Timeout
- B. RX SOP
- C. Application Visibility Control
- D. 802.11w

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 188

What causes the most signal attenuation, based on the wireless design tools?

- A. glass wall
- B. metal door
- C. office window
- D. cinder block wall

Answer: B

Explanation:

Metal doors cause the most signal attenuation in wireless design due to the properties of metal reflecting and absorbing radio waves, which can significantly reduce signal strength. Unlike materials such as cinder block or glass, metal can create a complete barrier for the signal, leading to a phenomenon known as "Faraday Cage" effect, where the metallic enclosure blocks electromagnetic fields.

It is important to note that metal chair legs and desk components will interact with the antenna of the AP and change the pattern of the radiation. Surveying the results of placement decisions with a good tool is necessary

NEW QUESTION # 189

A customer currently is migrating the old wireless infrastructure to a new Cisco IOS XE-based solution and wants a mobility group configured between a Cisco AireOS WLC and an IOS XE WLC. During the migration phase from AireOS to IOS XE, the Layer 3 roaming between the WLCs must be seamless. Which action meets the requirements?

- A. For different SSIDs, use different VLAN IDs and subnets on both WLCs.
- B. For the same SSIDs, use the same VLAN IDs and subnets on both WLCs.
- C. For the same SSIDs, use different VLAN IDs and subnets on both WLCs.
- D. For different SSIDs, use the same VLAN IDs and subnets on both WLCs.

Answer: B
