Scrum SAFe Practitioner Exam (6.0) Sample Questions (Q128-Q133):

NEW QUESTION # 128

Which artifact aligns expectations among key ART roles, teams, and stakeholders regarding what 'done' actually means?

- A. Definition of Done
- B. Acceptance Criteria
- C. Functional Specification
- D. Definition of Ready

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 129

What replaces detailed requirements documents?

- A. Stories
- B. Unit tests
- C. Pair work
- D. Task boards

Answer: A

Explanation:

Stories are the primary means of expressing needed functionality in SAFe. They largely replace the traditional requirements specification with new paradigms based on Lean-Agile development. Stories are elaborated by a user-voice statement and acceptance criteria, and they are used to describe the features and behaviors of the system at various levels of abstraction. Stories are also testable, estimable, and prioritizable, which makes them suitable for planning and delivering value in an iterative and incremental way. NEW QUESTION # 130

Which of the following measures tracks progress toward achieving desired outcomes?

- A. Objectives and key results
- B. Burn-down charts
- C. Cumulative flow diagrams
- D. ART actual business value

Answer: A

Explanation:

Objectives and key results (OKRs) are a framework for defining and tracking measurable goals and outcomes. OKRs consist of an objective, which is a concise, qualitative, and inspirational statement of what is to be achieved, and one or more key results, which are specific, quantitative, and time-bound measures of progress toward the objective. OKRs help align teams and individuals around a common vision, focus on the most important outcomes, and foster a culture of feedback and learning. In SAFe, OKRs are used at the portfolio, solution, and program levels to communicate and evaluate strategic intent and business value delivery¹². NEW QUESTION # 131

How many are the Scrum events?

- A. three
- B. depends on the length of the iteration
- C. four
- D. seven

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 132

Which statement is a value from the Agile Manifesto?

- A. Working software is the primary measure of progress
- B. Respect for people and culture
- C. Responding to change over following a plan
- D. Build incrementally with fast, integrated learning cycles

Answer: C

Explanation:

The Agile Manifesto is a set of values and principles that guide the software development process. One of the values is 'responding to change over following a plan'. This means that the team values the customer's needs and feedback over the plan and process. The team embraces change as an opportunity to deliver better solutions and adapts to changing requirements and priorities.
