NEW QUESTION # 89

Universal Containers (CU) has been using Salesforce to manage its sales and service processes. UC also an Experience Cloud site to interact with its customers. UC has now acquired Cloud Kicks (CK) Retail to grow its business, CK also uses Salesforce and a self-service site built on the experience Cloud to allow its customers to log support requests. UC now wants its customers to be able to use CK's self-service site so they can have a more integrated experience.
What should an Experience Cloud consultant recommend so that UC's can log in to CK;s site?

- A. Create separate user account for UC customer in CK's Experience Cloud site, since SSO cannot be established between two Experience Cloud sites.
- B. Establish SSO between the two Experience Cloud sites by using one org as an identity provider and the other org as a service.
- C. Create custom Apex handlers using login method from site class to sign in users from one community to the other.
- D. Use a third-party identity provider to establish SSO between the two Experience Cloud sites, since Salesforce can only be used as a service provider.

Answer: B

Explanation:
To allow UC's customers to log in to CK's site, an Experience Cloud consultant should recommend establishing SSO between the two Experience Cloud sites by using one org as an identity provider and the other org as a service provider. SSO is a feature that allows users to authenticate with one system and access multiple systems without entering their credentials again. To use SSO between two Experience Cloud sites, you need to use one org as an identity provider (IdP), which is the system that verifies the user's identity and issues a security token. You also need to use the other org as a service provider (SP), which is the system that accepts the security token and grants access to its resources.
