USAII Certified Artificial Intelligence Consultant Sample Questions (Q60-Q65):

NEW QUESTION # 60

Artificial narrow intelligence ANI is also commonly expressed as _____.

- A. ExpertAI
- B. Strong AI
- C. SuperAI
- D. General AI
- E. Weak AI

Answer: E

Explanation:

The correct answer is A. Weak AI . Artificial Narrow Intelligence, or ANI, is commonly called Weak AI because it is designed to perform a specific task or a limited set of tasks within a defined domain. Examples include recommendation engines, search engines, spam filters, facial recognition systems, voice assistants, fraud detection tools, and chatbots. These systems can perform their assigned functions effectively, but they do not possess general intelligence, consciousness, self-awareness, or human-like understanding across all domains.

Strong AI and General AI refer to Artificial General Intelligence, which would be capable of broad reasoning, learning, and problem-solving across many tasks like a human. SuperAI refers to a theoretical level of intelligence beyond human capability. ExpertAI is not the standard expression for ANI. Since ANI is task-specific and limited in scope, it is correctly expressed as Weak AI.

NEW QUESTION # 61

Which of the following is NOT a CORRECT element of the Planning and execution phase in the risk framework?

- A. Ethics
- B. Design and release of the final product/solution
- C. Finance
- D. Conceptualization of the AI use case
- E. Strategy

Answer: A

Explanation:

The correct answer is D. Ethics because ethics is not best treated as a single operational element of the planning and execution phase. In an AI risk framework, the planning and execution phase usually focuses on practical implementation activities such as defining the AI use case, aligning the solution with strategy, assessing financial feasibility, designing the product or solution, and preparing it for release. These activities help convert an AI concept into a working business or technical solution.

Conceptualization of the AI use case is correct because every AI initiative must begin with a clearly defined problem, objective, and intended business value. Strategy is also correct because the AI solution must align with organizational goals and risk appetite. Finance is relevant because organizations must consider cost, investment, expected return, and resource allocation. Design and release of the final product or solution is also part of execution.

Ethics is important across the entire AI lifecycle, but it is not the specific planning and execution element listed here. Therefore, the best answer is D. Ethics.

NEW QUESTION # 62

Select the most INCORRECT risk-scoring methodology function statement for retrospective/concurrent.

- A. Retrospective/concurrent risk leverages the most current risk of the model to predict the overall model risk for future cycles.
- B. a and b only
- C. Retrospective/concurrent is more suitable when there have been key changes to the model risk indicators, data model behavior, or recent attacks or loss of data, and the model is being investigated.
- D. a, b and c only
- E. Retrospective/concurrent risk methods predict model risk after analyzing historical model performance.

Answer: B

Explanation:

The correct answer is D. a and b only because statements A and B are the most incorrect for retrospective/concurrent risk-scoring methodology. Retrospective/concurrent risk assessment is mainly used to evaluate model risk based on past or present evidence, current model behavior, observed incidents, model performance changes, risk indicators, and investigation findings. It is not primarily a future-prediction method.

Statement A is incorrect because it says retrospective/concurrent methods "predict" model risk after analyzing historical model performance. Historical performance may be reviewed, but retrospective/concurrent risk scoring is more about assessing or investigating past and current risk conditions, not predicting future risk.

Statement B is also incorrect because using current model risk to predict overall model risk for future cycles describes prospective risk, not retrospective/concurrent risk. Statement C is correct because retrospective/concurrent review is suitable when there are changes in model behavior, risk indicators, attacks, data loss, or investigation needs. Therefore, the most incorrect statements are A and B only.

NEW QUESTION # 63

Choose the CORRECT benefit of solution architecture.

- A. All of the above
- B. As projects grow in size and teams become geographically distributed, having a well-defined solution architecture ensures long-term sustainability and effective collaboration.
- C. None of the above
- D. Solution architecture ensures that the developed solution meets the necessary standards and expectations.
- E. It provides a solid foundation for the development of enterprise software solutions.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Solution architecture provides the structured blueprint needed to move from a business or technical concept to a working implementation. It defines how different systems, applications, data flows, technologies, security requirements, and business needs will fit together. Therefore, it gives teams a solid foundation for developing enterprise software solutions.

A well-defined solution architecture is also valuable when projects become large, complex, or distributed across multiple teams and locations. It creates a common understanding of design decisions, integration points, responsibilities, and technical standards, which supports collaboration and long-term sustainability. In addition, solution architecture helps ensure that the final solution meets business expectations, technical requirements, quality standards, scalability needs, security controls, and operational goals. Since options A, B, and C all describe valid benefits of solution architecture, the most complete and correct answer is E. All of the above .
