PMI Project Management Office Certified Professional Sample Questions (Q74-Q79):

NEW QUESTION # 74

A PMO was just established in a large organization. The PMO team identified all potential PMO customers and analyzed them based on their power and interest. The list of customers was much too long and the PMO's capacity to nurture them all is not sufficient.

What should the PMO professional do to move toward developing the service catalog?

- A. Consider all customers, categorize them, and decide on how to retrieve information from the different groups of customers.
- B. Focus on the middle and top levels of management and incorporate resource expectations for when the PMO will have sufficient resources to serve all of the customers.
- C. Interview the portfolio, program and project managers; understand their needs; and develop a service catalog based on their interests as they are the experts.
- D. Interview executive leadership, understand their expectations, and generalize the findings as they are the main decision makers.

Answer: A

Explanation:

When the PMO customer base is large and capacity is limited, PMI-PMOCP recommends a segmentation and categorization approach (Option B). This enables the PMO to tailor service offerings and communication strategies based on customer groups' power, interest, and needs, efficiently managing resources and expectations.

Focusing only on executive leadership (Option A) or middle and top management (Option C) risks overlooking critical stakeholders. Developing a service catalog solely from portfolio or project managers (Option D) may limit the scope and miss broader stakeholder needs.

Categorizing customers facilitates targeted engagement and scalable service development, consistent with PMI best practices.

NEW QUESTION # 75

An established PMO has a forecast of the expected benefits from all current and planned initiatives for the next 3 years. Due to a new regulation, the portfolio delivery plan needs to be reviewed to ensure that compliance will be realized by the given due date. The engineering department proposes to delay a strategic initiative to free up some resources for the compliance project.

What should the PMO manager do first?

- A. Propose the change to the portfolio board in order to get the new benefits delivery plan approved.
- B. Give advice to the portfolio board to outsource the compliance project so the benefits delivery plan will not be affected.
- C. Assess the impact of the proposed change on the benefits delivery plan.
- D. Evaluate the portfolio and check how the benefits delivery plan can be optimized.

Answer: C

Explanation:

In portfolio management, changes in project priorities or timelines require a structured impact assessment before approval or implementation. The PMO manager's first responsibility is to analyze how delaying a strategic initiative affects the overall benefits delivery plan. This ensures an informed decision that considers potential risks, benefits, and trade-offs.

According to PMI-PMOCP guidelines, assessing impacts early in the change control process supports governance and strategic alignment, ensuring that adjustments optimize portfolio value while maintaining compliance. This assessment provides the portfolio board with necessary data to decide on the proposed change rather than rushing into approvals (option B) or prescriptive advice (option C). Evaluating optimization (option D) is a broader step that follows impact analysis.

NEW QUESTION # 76

A PMO professional for an engineering company was contacted by a newly hired project manager who wanted to submit an urgent change request to reset the baseline for the project schedule. The project manager did not understand the process for submitting such a request. Because this project is critical for the company, any delays might put the project at risk. What should the PMO professional do?

- A. Ensure that the project manager attends the required training that will provide more information about the change management process.
- B. Tell the project manager to refer to the organizational process assets (OPAs) for the change request template and provide support as needed.
- C. Support the project manager in creating the change request and guide the project manager through its submission and approval.
- D. Instruct the project manager to follow the project management governance model, which has predefined processes and procedures for change requests.

Answer: C

Explanation:

In the context of the PMI-PMOCP Governance domain, one of the critical functions of the PMO professional is to provide proactive support and guidance to project managers, especially when urgent changes are needed in critical projects. Although organizational process assets (OPAs) and governance models provide important frameworks and tools, the PMO's role extends beyond simply pointing to these resources. The PMO professional should actively assist the project manager in preparing the change request to ensure it is correctly documented and aligned with organizational standards, reducing risk and delays.

According to PMI's PMO practice guides and the PMI-PMOCP exam content outline, the Governance domain emphasizes oversight, adherence to processes, and facilitation. Helping the project manager navigate the change management process embodies good governance and improves project outcomes. This approach supports organizational strategy by enabling timely decision-making and maintaining project control.

Furthermore, while training is important, it is not an immediate solution for urgent requests. Telling the project manager to self-serve through OPAs (Option A) or simply directing them to follow governance models (Option B) without hands-on assistance risks delays and misunderstandings, particularly for new PMs.

NEW QUESTION # 77

In an organization, the executives focus mainly on project operational deliverables. How should the PMO professional support the executives in fostering a business-value-driven perspective?

- A. Implement a benefits realization management process.
- B. Transition from a PMO into a value management office (VMO).
- C. Promote awareness of using an efficiency approach for the management of the organization's projects.
- D. Support portfolio management by establishing connections among deliverables and expected outcomes.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Implementing a benefits realization management process is key to shifting the focus from operational deliverables to business value. This process tracks and ensures that projects deliver tangible, measurable benefits aligned with strategic goals.

Promoting efficiency (Option A) is important but does not explicitly connect deliverables to business value.

Transitioning to a VMO (Option B) is a structural change that may not be feasible. Supporting portfolio management (Option D) helps but benefits realization provides a direct mechanism.

PMI-PMOCP Strategic Alignment domain highlights benefits realization as a critical enabler of value-focused project governance.

NEW QUESTION # 78

A PMO has been thriving within the organization for the past 3 years. A new PMO professional has been appointed to lead the PMO and is expected to sustain its success.

What should the PMO professional do first?

- A. Keep the current PMO services and improve their maturity when applicable.
- B. Analyze the performance metrics of current services and the value generated by the PMO.
- C. Collect expectations of PMO customers and make necessary PMO services adjustments.
- D. Realign the current PMO services to the organizational strategy and goals.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Before making changes or adjustments, the PMO professional should analyze existing performance data and value delivered to understand what is working well and where improvements are needed. This data-driven approach helps sustain success by building on strengths and addressing gaps with evidence.

While collecting expectations (Option B), maturing services (Option C), and realigning strategy (Option D) are important, they come after understanding current performance.

PMI-PMOCP Strategic Alignment underscores baseline analysis as the starting point for sustaining and improving PMO value.
