APMG-International Agile Project Management (AgilePM) Foundation Exam Sample Questions (Q58-Q63):

NEW QUESTION # 58
Which purpose relates to the Consolidation in a structured Timebox?

- A. To formality accept the structured Timebox deliverables.
- B. To address the requirements and test the structure Timebox product.
- C. To tie up any loose ends related to Evolutionary Development
- D. To confirm the detail of all the requirements to be delivered by the structured Timebox.

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 59
In the context of AgilePM, what two types of Increment are associated with what is delivered?

- A. Timebound and Freeform
- B. Product and Process
- C. Team and Individual
- D. Solution and Product

Answer: D

Explanation:
AgilePM distinguishes between increments in terms of what is actually delivered to stakeholders. The emphasis is on a Solution-the integrated outcome that delivers business value-not merely isolated technical outputs. As delivery progresses, teams create Solution Increments that accumulate into a releasable Product (the broader, user-facing capability). This distinction helps align day-to-day development with business outcomes: every increment should be a cohesive slice of the evolving solution that is demonstrably usable or verifiable, while the Product view ensures that increments collectively support release goals and benefits realization. AgilePM's focus on MoSCoW prioritization and timeboxing supports this by ensuring each Solution Increment contains the right mix of Must/Should/Could features to satisfy acceptance and maintain momentum. In practice, reviews showcase the Solution Increment's usability to business representatives, while release planning considers how these increments roll up into Product evolution. Therefore, the two types associated with what is delivered are best captured by Solution and Product, making option A the fit with AgilePM terminology and intent.

NEW QUESTION # 60
Which of the following statements is true?

- A. Product development focuses primarily on who is involved and why it should be.
- B. Product development focuses on governance of the environment.
- C. Project management is concerned with a wider context than product development.
- D. Project management addresses more complex problems than product development.

Answer: C

Explanation:
AgilePM sits at the project level, framing delivery within business justification, governance, stakeholder engagement, risk, funding, and release management. This is a wider context than the mechanics of product development, which concentrates on evolving the product incrementally (requirements, design, build, test) using frameworks like Scrum. AgilePM aligns product delivery with organizational goals via a Business Case, clear roles, stage/phase control, and timeboxing, while enabling adaptive scope through prioritization. Product development is a vital subset, but project management additionally addresses cross-team dependencies, external stakeholders (e.g., operations, compliance), transition to live service, and benefits enablement. Options B, C, and D either overstate comparative complexity, misstate product development's focus, or confuse product delivery with governance structures. The accurate statement is that project management operates in a broader organizational and governance context than product development-exactly what AgilePM was designed to harmonize with agile delivery methods.

NEW QUESTION # 61
What phase will create Solution increments?

- A. Deployment
- B. Feasibility
- C. Foundations
- D. Evolutionary Development

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 62
What DSDM product describes how the benefits have actually accrued following a period in live operation?

- A. Delivery Plan
- B. Prioritized Requirement List
- C. Project Review Report
- D. Benefits Assessment

Answer: D

Explanation:
The DSDM product that describes how the benefits have actually accrued following a period in live operation is the Benefits Assessment3. This product is used to assess the actual benefits realized after the solution has been in use3.
