SAP Certified - Database Administrator - SAP HANA Sample Questions (Q52-Q57):

NEW QUESTION # 52

A regional insurance provider completes an SAP HANA installation activity for a new administrative test environment. The installation summary reports success, and the database can be started. During the post-installation validation, SAP HANA cockpit shows the system, but one required administrative check remains incomplete because the database explorer connection was not created for the new database. The infrastructure team wants to mark the installation complete because the database process is running.

The constraint is that the administrator must confirm that the installation is operationally usable for administration tasks, not merely installed and started. The environment must be handed over with validated administration access.

Which action should the administrator take before handover?

- A. Restart the database so SAP HANA cockpit and database explorer can automatically align their connection states.
- B. Postpone validation until the first scheduled backup proves the new database is operationally available.
- C. Create and verify the database explorer connection for the new database, then complete the post-installation validation.
- D. Close the installation because the installation summary reports success and the database can be started.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Feedback:

This addresses the missing administration binding before handover. Creating and verifying the database explorer connection confirms that installation, tool access, and validation evidence are aligned for operational administration.

NEW QUESTION # 53

A regional water services company uses SAP HANA for operational consumption analytics in an on-premises administration environment. After planned maintenance, the database starts and SAP HANA cockpit shows the system as available. During validation, an administrator runs an hdbsql check from the operations workstation and receives a connection response from a different database endpoint than the one recorded in the maintenance plan. The old endpoint was retained in a saved connection profile used by the operations team.

The constraint is that the administrator must validate the intended SAP HANA database before reopening scheduled administration checks. The team must not treat a successful connection as proof that the correct database target was reached.

Which action best resolves the validation issue?

- A. Recreate the administrator user because a wrong endpoint response indicates the user was assigned to the wrong database.
- B. Accept the validation because hdbsql returned a successful connection response from an SAP HANA database.
- C. Correct the saved connection profile to the intended database endpoint, rerun the hdbsql check, and validate the target identity.
- D. Restart the intended database so the saved connection profile automatically redirects to the active endpoint.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Feedback:

This corrects the target-binding issue at the administration tooling layer. Updating the saved profile, rerunning the check, and validating the target identity confirms that connection configuration, execution, and evidence all refer to the intended SAP HANA database.

NEW QUESTION # 54

CHALLENGE 2 - Restoration Simulation Monitoring Baseline

Late-evening restoration simulation reports showed variable response time, and the field operations lead requests tuning before the next UAT run. The monitoring baseline has not been fully captured, and some alert thresholds still reflect the earlier reporting profile.

What should the database owner do first?

- A. Apply tuning immediately because restoration reporting affects field operations readiness.
- B. Disable restoration simulation alerts so the next UAT run focuses on report completion.
- C. Move the tuning decision to SAP HANA Cloud because future analytics may migrate there.
- D. Capture the current monitoring baseline and validate threshold relevance before tuning.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Feedback:

The database owner should capture the baseline and validate threshold relevance before tuning. This prevents performance changes from obscuring the current UAT evidence.

NEW QUESTION # 55

CHALLENGE 1 - Cutover Configuration Evidence Traceability

The cutover coordinator wants to use the first comparison because carrier exception reports opened successfully. The database team later confirms that the upgraded distribution system's administration record does not reflect the configuration state used during testing. Which decision best supports release-quality evidence?

- A. Replace the upgraded system record with the SAP HANA Cloud provisioning record.
- B. Treat the missing configuration evidence as unrelated because cutover testing focuses on reporting access.
- C. Update the administration record and reassess the cutover comparison against the confirmed state.
- D. Use the comparison because report opening is sufficient evidence for release support.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Feedback:

The administration record should be updated and the cutover comparison reassessed against the confirmed state. This preserves the dependency between configuration evidence and the reporting conclusion used for release support.

NEW QUESTION # 56

CHALLENGE 3 - Cloud Planning Evidence Separation

The business sponsor wants one readiness statement covering first close sign-off and future SAP HANA Cloud reporting transition. The current close systems have backup and monitoring evidence, while the cloud database has provisioning evidence only. Which action best supports accurate planning?

- A. Separate first close readiness from cloud transition readiness in the decision package.
- B. Combine all evidence into one readiness statement to simplify sponsor review.
- C. Use cloud provisioning as proof that the modernization workstream is ready for reporting.
- D. Delay first close sign-off until SAP HANA Cloud has the same reporting workload.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Feedback:

The decision package should separate first close readiness from cloud transition readiness. The evidence supports different lifecycle decisions and should not be merged into one conclusion.
