ISQI ISTQB Certified Tester Foundation Level (CTFL) v4.0 Sample Questions (Q194-Q199):

NEW QUESTION # 194

Which ONE of the following activities TYPICALLY belongs to the planning phase of the review process?

- A. Each reviewer conducts an individual review to identify anomalies, recommendations, and questions.
- B. The purpose and scope of the review are defined, as well as the work product to be reviewed and the exit criteria.
- C. A separate defect report is created for each identified defect so that corrective actions can be tracked.
- D. The reviewers analyze and discuss the anomalies found during the review in a joint meeting.

Answer: B

Explanation:

The planning phase of the review process (C) includes defining the review's purpose, scope, and exit criteria to ensure alignment. Option A is part of the defect management phase, B happens during individual preparation, and D takes place in the review meeting.

Reference: ISTQB CTFL v4.0 Syllabus, Section 3.2.2 - Review Process

NEW QUESTION # 195

Which ONE of the following statements about maintenance testing is CORRECT?

- A. Maintenance testing does not require test cases since it focuses solely on defect verification.
- B. Maintenance testing should be performed when enhancements, fixes, or updates are applied to an existing system.
- C. Maintenance testing is only required when defects are reported in production.
- D. Maintenance testing is performed exclusively for adaptive maintenance.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Maintenance testing is carried out whenever changes are made to an existing system, including enhancements, defect fixes, and system migrations (C). It is not limited to adaptive maintenance (A) and is needed even when no defects are reported (B). Test cases are essential to validate fixes and prevent regressions (D).

NEW QUESTION # 196

Which of the following IS the BEST example of whole team approach

- A. Sharing same physical workspace is a must
- B. Anyone can perform a task they are capable of
- C. Developers should depend on the business analysts as there is no distinction between testers and developers
- D. Testing is the responsibility of the entire team

Answer: D

Explanation:

The whole team approach in testing means that the responsibility for testing is shared among all members of the team, not just the testers. This concept is emphasized in agile methodologies where collaboration and collective ownership of quality are key principles. Each team member, including developers, business analysts, and testers, contributes to the testing process, ensuring that quality is built into the product from the beginning.

References:

* ISTQB CTFL V4.0, Section 1.5.2 on the "whole team approach" which describes the collective responsibility of the team for testing.

NEW QUESTION # 197

A virtual service emulating a real third-party service and the automated test scripts (aimed at testing the system under test) that interact with that service, are test work products that are typically created during:

- A. Test implementation
- B. Test monitoring and control
- C. Test analysis
- D. Test design

Answer: A

Explanation:

Explanation

This answer is correct because test implementation is the activity where test work products, such as test cases, test data, test scripts, test harnesses, test stubs, or virtual services, are created and verified. Test implementation also involves setting up the test environment and preparing the test execution schedule. A virtual service emulating a real third-party service and the automated test scripts that interact with that service are examples of test work products that are typically created during test implementation.

NEW QUESTION # 198

Which ONE of the following options is NOT a benefit of test automation?

- A. Reduced test execution times
- B. More objective assessment
- C. Prevention of simple human errors
- D. Eliminating completely the need for manual testing

Answer: D

Explanation:

Test automation improves efficiency and accuracy, but it does NOT eliminate manual testing (D).

* (A) is correct because automation speeds up execution.

* (B) is correct as automated tests produce consistent and unbiased results.

* (C) is correct because automation reduces human errors in repetitive tests.

However, manual testing remains essential for exploratory testing, usability testing, and complex test scenarios.
