Scrum Professional Scrum Master I Sample Questions (Q55-Q60):

NEW QUESTION # 55

Currently, your Development Teams are organized to address a single layer only (for example, front end, middle tier, back end, and interfaces). What are three things to consider when deciding to move away from such component teams toward feature teams? (Choose three.)

- A. Productivity may suffer when making this kind of move.
- B. You cannot do Scrum without feature teams.
- C. With feature teams, it is easier to calculate the productivity per team.
- D. Getting support from the business side first helps.
- E. Feature teams have less communication overhead.

Answer: A,D,E

Explanation:

The correct answers are B, C, and D, because moving away from component teams toward feature teams may involve some challenges and trade-offs. Productivity may suffer when making this kind of move, as teams need to learn new skills, coordinate with other teams, and deal with legacy code. Getting support from the business side first helps, as they can provide the vision, value, and feedback for the features. Feature teams have less communication overhead, as they can deliver end-to-end functionality without depending on other teams.

NEW QUESTION # 56

You are the Scrum Master of a new, to be developed product. Development is going to require 45 people. What is a good first question for you to suggest the group thinks about when forming into teams?

- A. Who are the subject matter experts on each team?
- B. How will we make sure all teams have the right amount or expertise?
- C. What is the right mixture of senior and junior people on each team?
- D. Who are going to be the team leads?

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 57

(When might a Sprint be cancelled?
Choose the best answer.)

- A. When the Sprint Goal becomes obsolete.
- B. When the Developers determine the product plan is infeasible.
- C. When the sales department has an important new opportunity.
- D. When it becomes clear that not everything will be finished by the end of the Sprint.

Answer: A

Explanation:

A Sprint may be cancelled only if the Sprint Goal becomes obsolete. This makes Option A the correct answer.

The Scrum Guide is very clear that only the Product Owner has the authority to cancel a Sprint, although that decision may be influenced by stakeholders, the Developers, or the Scrum Master. The reason for cancellation is not general disruption, poor forecasting, or the appearance of new work. It is specifically tied to the Sprint Goal no longer having value or relevance.

Option B is incorrect because a new business opportunity does not automatically justify cancelling a Sprint.

Scrum is designed to handle change without disrupting the Sprint unless the Sprint Goal itself is no longer valid. Option C is incorrect because feasibility concerns should be addressed through collaboration and adaptation, but they do not by themselves define the cancellation rule. Option D is incorrect because not finishing all selected work is not a reason to cancel a Sprint. Scrum accepts uncertainty, and the team inspects and adapts. The Sprint Goal remains the key commitment, and as long as it is still relevant, the Sprint should continue.

NEW QUESTION # 58

When does the next Sprint begin?

- A. Immediately after the conclusion of the previous Sprint.
- B. When the Product Owner is ready.
- C. Immediately following the next Sprint Planning.
- D. The Monday following the Sprint Review.

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 59

Multiple Scrum Teams working on the same product or system all select work from the same Product Backlog.

- A. True
- B. False

Answer: A

Explanation:

According to the Scrum Guide 1, when multiple Scrum Teams are working together on one product, they must coordinate their work with each other. One way to do this is through Nexus, a framework for scaling Scrum. Nexus helps to reduce cross-team dependencies and integration issues by making them more transparent. Multiple Scrum Teams working on one product use one Product Backlog.
