NEW QUESTION # 25

A project built using REFramework pulls phone numbers from a database of employees and creates queue items for each one. Following processing, these elements must be added to a financing application. The queue item holding a phone number becomes invalid if a digit is accidentally left out because of a human mistake. As a requirement, queue items that contain partial numbers should not be accepted.

What type of error should be thrown according to best practices?

- A. Fatal Exception
- B. System Exception
- C. Business Exception
- D. Application Exception

Answer: C

Explanation:

The type of error that should be thrown according to best practices for queue items that contain partial numbers is Business Exception. A Business Exception is an exception that occurs due to an incorrect or incomplete input data or an expected business rule violation. A Business Exception indicates that the transaction item cannot be processed successfully and should be marked as failed in the queue. A Business Exception can be thrown by using the Throw activity in UiPath Studio, with the exception type set to UiPath.Core.BusinessRuleException. Alternatively, a Business Exception can be thrown by using the Set Transaction Status activity in the REFramework, with the status set to Failed and the exception type set to Business Exception.
