Scrum Professional Scrum Master I Sample Questions (Q183-Q188):

NEW QUESTION # 183

A new Developer is having continuing conflicts with existing members of the Scrum Team, which is impacting the delivery of the Increment. It is necessary, who is responsible for removing the Developer from the Scrum Team?
(choose the best answer)

- A. The Scrum Master is responsible, they remove impediments
- B. The Scrum Team is responsible
- C. The hiring manager is responsible, they hired the Developer
- D. The Product Owner is responsible, they control the return on investment (ROI)

Answer: B

Explanation:

According to the Scrum Guide, the Scrum Team is responsible for removing a Developer from the Scrum Team if necessary, as they are self-managing and accountable for creating valuable Increments. The other options are not valid, as they imply that someone else outside the Scrum Team has the authority to remove a Developer (such as the Scrum Master, the Product Owner, or the hiring manager), which is not consistent with Scrum values and principles.

NEW QUESTION # 184

The Development Team should have all the skills needed to:

- A. Turn Product Backlog items into an Increment of potentially releasable product functionality.
- B. Do all of the development work, except for specialized testing that requires additional tools and environments.
- C. Complete the project within the date and cost as calculated by the Product Owner.

Answer: A

Explanation:

According to the Scrum Guide¹, an Increment is a concrete stepping stone toward the Product Goal. Each Increment is additive to all prior Increments and thoroughly verified, ensuring that all Increments work together. In order to provide value, an Increment must be usable. Multiple Increments may be created within a Sprint. The sum of the Increments is presented at the Sprint Review thus supporting empiricism. However, an Increment may be delivered to stakeholders prior to the end of the Sprint. The Sprint Review should never be considered a gate to releasing value. Therefore, in order to turn Product Backlog items into an Increment of potentially releasable product functionality, the Development Team should have all the skills needed.

NEW QUESTION # 185

Which of the following are true about the length of the Sprint? (Choose two.)

- A. It is best to have Sprints of consistent length throughout a development effort.
- B. Sprint length is determined during Sprint Planning, and should hold the time it will take to code the planned features in the upcoming Sprint, but does not include time for any testing.
- C. All Sprints must be 1 month or less.
- D. The length of the Sprint should be proportional to the work that is done in between Sprints.
- E. Sprint length is determined during Sprint Planning, and should be long enough to make sure the Development Team can deliver what is to be accomplished in the upcoming Sprint.

Answer: A,C

Explanation:

The correct answers are A and C, because these statements are true about the length of the Sprint. It is best to have Sprints of consistent length throughout a development effort, as this helps establish a reliable rhythm and cadence for the Scrum Team and the stakeholders. All Sprints must be one month or less, as this ensures that the Scrum Team can inspect and adapt frequently and deliver value incrementally.

NEW QUESTION # 186

Who is on the Scrum Team? (Choose all that apply.)

- A. Scrum Master
- B. Development Team member
- C. Product Owner
- D. None of the above
- E. Project Manager

Answer: A,B,C

Explanation:

The Scrum Team consists of three roles: the Scrum Master, who coaches and facilitates the team; the Product Owner, who manages and prioritizes the Product Backlog; and the Development Team, who delivers a potentially releasable Increment at the end of each Sprint. A project manager is not part of the Scrum Team, as Scrum does not recognize titles or sub-teams. None of the above is also not a correct answer, as it implies that there is no Scrum Team at all.

NEW QUESTION # 187

True or False Developers do not meet with stakeholders: only the Product Owner meets with stakeholders

- A. False
- B. True

Answer: A

Explanation:

According to the Scrum Guide, Developers do meet with stakeholders, especially during the Sprint Review and Sprint Planning events. The Product Owner is the primary person who interacts with stakeholders, but Developers also need to communicate with them to understand their needs, expectations, and feedback. The Product Owner may also invite stakeholders to provide clarifications or inputs during the Sprint.
