BCS Foundation Certificate in Business Analysis V4.0 Sample Questions (Q21-Q26):

NEW QUESTION # 21

Which of the following statements about formal observation as an investigation technique are TRUE?

It helps the analyst to...

- a) ... negotiate and resolve conflicting requirements
- b) ... understand the physical business environment
- c) ... obtain buy-in from a range of stakeholders
- d) ... identify tacit knowledge in business practice.

- A. a, b and d only.
- B. a, b and c only.
- C. c and d only.
- D. b and d only

Answer: D

Explanation:

The true statements about formal observation are b and d. Formal observation is when a business analyst watches an individual or group perform their work. Statement (b) is true as observing the environment directly helps the analyst understand the physical business environment and how it influences the work. Statement (d) is true because observation is particularly effective for identifying tacit knowledge (unspoken or unwritten rules, shortcuts, or skills) that the worker may take for granted or find difficult to articulate during an interview. Statement (a) is false as observation is a passive technique, not suitable for actively negotiating or resolving conflicts, which is better suited for workshops or interviews. Statement (c) is false as observation does not actively engage a wide range of stakeholders to obtain buy-in.

NEW QUESTION # 23

The quantitative measures of performance that are used to track achievement of critical success factors are known as what?

- A. Key performance indicators
- B. Vision and strategy indicators.
- C. Objectives
- D. Balanced business scorecard

Answer: A

Explanation:

Critical Success Factors (CSFs) are the few areas in which an organisation must achieve consistently high performance to meet its mission and strategic goals. To monitor whether a CSF is being achieved, a BA defines quantitative measures of performance, which are known as Key Performance Indicators (KPIs). KPIs are the specific, measurable metrics used to track and assess the success of an activity or the progress towards an objective. For example, if a CSF is "Excellent Customer Service," a corresponding KPI might be "Average Call Waiting Time (less than 60 seconds)"-a clear, quantitative measure. While the Balanced Business Scorecard (D) is a framework that uses CSFs and KPIs, the specific quantitative measures themselves are the KPIs. Objectives (B) are the desired outcomes, not the measure of the outcome.
