AACN Critical Care Nursing Exam Sample Questions (Q116-Q121):

NEW QUESTION # 116

The nurse provides instructions regarding home care to the parents of a 3-year-old child hospitalized with hemophilia. Which statement, if made by the parent, indicates a need for further instructions?

- A. "We will pad corners of the furniture."
- B. "We will avoid having the child receive immunizations and cancel the scheduled dental appointments."
- C. "We will supervise the child closely."
- D. "We will remove household items that can easily fall over."

Answer: B

Explanation:

Explanation: The nurse needs to stress the importance of immunizations, dental hygiene, and routine well-child care. The parents are also instructed in the measures to implement in the event of blunt trauma, especially trauma involving the joints, and to apply prolonged pressure to superficial wounds until the bleeding has stopped.

NEW QUESTION # 117

During an exchange transfusion for sickle cell crisis, the patient becomes anxious and reports tingling and numbness around the mouth. The nurse should administer:

- A. Magnesium
- B. Lorazepam
- C. Calcium
- D. Potassium

Answer: C

Explanation:

Citrate, a preservative used in banked blood, binds with calcium, causing hypocalcemia—a known complication of rapid or large-volume transfusions like exchange transfusion. Symptoms include perioral tingling, numbness, muscle twitching, and anxiety. Administration of IV calcium gluconate or calcium chloride is indicated.

"Rapid transfusion of blood products can result in hypocalcemia due to citrate toxicity. Signs include tingling, muscle irritability, and anxiety. Calcium replacement is required." (Referenced from CCRN Pediatric - Direct Care: Hematology, Transfusion Reactions and Electrolyte Management)

NEW QUESTION # 118

What nursing action should be done in an infant who receives IVF via a scalp vein:

- A. explain to the parents that they can't hold the client while the IV therapy is ongoing.
- B. assess for signs of infiltration behind the occiput
- C. restrain the extremities when there's no one to see the child.
- D. assess the pupils every 1 hour for any untoward reaction.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Explanation: Extremities need to be restrained as infants use them to dislodge the needle. Pupillary reaction and assessing at the occiput do not relate to scalp vein and IV therapy.

NEW QUESTION # 119

What would cause the closure of the Foramen ovale after the baby had been delivered?

- A. Increased PO<sub>2</sub>
- B. Increased in oxygen saturation
- C. Decreased blood flow
- D. Shifting of pressures from right side to the left side of the heart

Answer: D

Explanation:

Explanation: During feto-placental circulation, the pressure in the heart is much higher in the right side, but once breathing/crying is established, the pressure will shift from the R to the L side, and will facilitate the closure of Foramen Ovale.

NEW QUESTION # 120

An infant with a sternal wound infection has a negative-pressure wound therapy device in place. A nurse should recognize that the primary purpose of the device is to speed healing of the wound through:

- A. Removal of exudate and stimulation of vascular growth
- B. Maintenance of a seal around the wound
- C. The use of subatmospheric pressure through suction
- D. Maintenance of a clean, moist wound environment

Answer: A

Explanation:

Negative-pressure wound therapy (NPWT), also known as wound VAC, accelerates wound healing by removing exudate, reducing bacterial burden, and stimulating angiogenesis and granulation tissue formation through mechanical microstrain. This is essential in deep, complex wounds such as post-sternal infections.

"Negative pressure wound therapy promotes wound healing through the removal of infectious material and exudate and by increasing local blood flow and granulation tissue." (Referenced from CCRN Pediatric - Direct Care: Integumentary, Advanced Wound Management)
