NEW QUESTION # 31
What is the difference between a list and a tuple in Python?

- A. Lists are immutable objects that use square brackets, and tuples are mutable objects that use parentheses.
- B. Lists are mutable objects that use square brackets, and tuples are immutable objects that use parentheses.
- C. Lists are immutable objects that use parentheses, and tuples are immutable objects that use square brackets.
- D. Lists are mutable objects that use parentheses, and tuples are immutable objects that use square brackets.

Answer: B

Explanation:
In Python, the distinction between lists and tuples is essential for efficient programming:
Lists:
Mutable (B): This means that once a list is created, its elements can be changed, added, or removed. Lists are versatile and commonly used when the data is expected to change.
Square Brackets: Lists are defined using square brackets [].
Example:
my_list = [1, 2, 3]
my_list[0] = 10 # Modifying the first element
Tuples:
Immutable (B): Once a tuple is created, it cannot be altered. Tuples are used when a fixed collection of items is needed, providing more integrity to the data.
Parentheses: Tuples are defined using parentheses ().
Example:
my_tuple = (1, 2, 3)
my_tuple[0] = 10 # This would raise an error because tuples are immutable Reference:
Python Official Documentation: The Python Language Reference provides detailed information on data types like lists and tuples, including their mutability and syntax.
Automation Scripts: In the context of automation, understanding when to use mutable or immutable data structures can significantly impact script performance and reliability.
