NEW QUESTION # 175
What does the Lightning Component framework provide to developers?

- A. Prebuilt components that can be reused
- B. Support for Classic and Lightning UIs
- C. Extended governor limits for applications
- D. Templates to create custom components

Answer: A

Explanation:
The Lightning Component framework provides:
Option A: Prebuilt components that can be reused
The framework includes a library of base components that developers can use to build custom components and applications.
These components can be reused and combined to create complex UIs.
Reference:
"The Lightning Component framework provides a set of prebuilt components that you can use to build your own components and applications."
- Lightning Components Developer Guide
Why Other Options Are Incorrect:
Option B:
The Lightning Component framework is primarily for Lightning Experience and Salesforce mobile app, not for Classic UI.
Option C:
It does not provide extended governor limits; governor limits remain the same.
Option D:
While you can create custom components, the framework does not provide templates in the way described.

- A. Unit tests must have calls to the System.assert method.
- B. Should deploy during business hours to ensure feedback can be quickly addressed.
- C. least 75% of Apex code must be covered by unit tests.
- D. All triggers must have at least one line of test coverage.

Answer: C,D

Explanation:
When deploying Apex code to production, the following considerations are required:
Option B: All triggers must have at least one line of test coverage.
Salesforce mandates that every trigger has some test coverage.
Salesforce requires that 75% of your Apex code is covered by tests.
Reference:
"All Apex code must have 75% test coverage, and all triggers must have some test coverage in order to be deployed to production."
- Salesforce Help: Deployment Testing Requirements
Option C: At least 75% of Apex code must be covered by unit tests.
"At least 75% of your Apex code must be covered by unit tests, and all of those tests must complete successfully."
- Salesforce Help: Deployment Testing Requirements
Why Other Options Are Incorrect:
Option A: Deploying during business hours is not a technical requirement and may not be best practice due to potential impact on users.
Option D: While using System.assert is good practice, it's not a strict requirement for deployment.
