Confluent Certified Developer for Apache Kafka Certification Examination Sample Questions (Q32-Q37):

NEW QUESTION # 32

If a topic has a replication factor of 3...

- A. Each partition will live on 4 different brokers
- B. 3 replicas of the same data will live on 1 broker
- C. Each partition will live on 3 different brokers
- D. Each partition will live on 2 different brokers

Answer: C

Explanation:

Replicas are spread across available brokers, and each replica = one broker. RF 3 = 3 brokers

NEW QUESTION # 33

A consumer application needs to use an "at most once" delivery semantic.

What is the best consumer configuration to avoid duplicate messages being read?

- A. `auto.offset.reset=earliest` and `enable.auto.commit=true`
- B. `auto.offset.reset=latest` and `enable.auto.commit=false`
- C. `auto.offset.reset=earliest` and `enable.auto.commit=false`
- D. `auto.offset.reset=latest` and `enable.auto.commit=true`

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 34

Which configuration allows more time for the consumer poll to process records?

- A. `max.poll.interval.ms`
- B. `heartbeat.interval.ms`
- C. `fetch.max.wait.ms`
- D. `session.timeout.ms`

Answer: A

Explanation:

`max.poll.interval.ms` defines the maximum delay between invocations of `poll()` before the consumer is considered failed. It essentially gives consumers more time to process records before needing to poll again.

From Kafka Consumer Configuration Reference:

"`max.poll.interval.ms`: The maximum delay between invocations of `poll()` when using consumer group management. If `poll()` is not called before expiration, the consumer is considered failed." `session.timeout.ms` and `heartbeat.interval.ms` relate to group coordination and heartbeats.

`fetch.max.wait.ms` affects how long the broker waits to accumulate data before sending a fetch response.

NEW QUESTION # 35

You are running a Kafka Streams application in a Docker container managed by Kubernetes, and upon application restart, it takes a long time for the docker container to replicate the state and get back to processing the data. How can you improve dramatically the application restart?

- A. Increase the number of partitions in your inputs topic
- B. Reduce the Streams caching property
- C. Increase the number of Streams threads
- D. Mount a persistent volume for your RocksDB

Answer: D

Explanation:

Although any Kafka Streams application is stateless as the state is stored in Kafka, it can take a while and lots of resources to recover the state from Kafka. In order to speed up recovery, it is advised to store the Kafka Streams state on a persistent volume, so that only the missing part of the state needs to be recovered.

NEW QUESTION # 36

What is a generic unique id that I can use for messages I receive from a consumer?

- A. topic + partition + timestamp
- B. topic + timestamp

- C. topic + partition + offset

Answer: C

Explanation:

(Topic,Partition,Offset) uniquely identifies a message in Kafka
