A carrier has an agreement with a shipper that starts on January 1 for fuel price as 5% of the base freight. The fuel surcharge is pegged to the current price of 3 USD a gallon. The fuel surcharge can change proportionally based on the fuel price on the calculation date. How will you define fuel surcharge calculation in transportation management? Note: There are 2 correct answers to this question.

- A. Use a determination rule for the index rate table.
- B. Use the rating amount or a standard rate table for the fuel surcharge.
- C. Use a rate table for the fuel surcharge with calculation date as a scale.
- D. Use an index table for the fuel surcharge charge item.

Answer: A,D

Explanation:

In SAP S/4HANA Transportation Management, fuel surcharges that vary based on fuel price changes are managed using dynamic calculation methods. According to the SAP documentation:

* Use an index table for the fuel surcharge charge item (A): An index table is used to store fuel price indices (e.g., pegged to 3 USD per gallon) and calculate the surcharge as a percentage (5%) of the base freight, adjusted based on the current fuel price.

* Use a determination rule for the index rate table (D): A determination rule is required to select the appropriate index table based on conditions, such as the calculation date or agreement validity, ensuring the correct fuel price is applied.

The other options are incorrect:

* Use the rating amount or a standard rate table for the fuel surcharge (B) is not suitable, as standard rate tables do not dynamically adjust based on fuel price indices.

* Use a rate table for the fuel surcharge with calculation date as a scale (C) is not typically used, as index tables are preferred for dynamic fuel surcharge calculations.
