ISACA Advanced in AI Audit Sample Questions (Q75-Q80):

NEW QUESTION # 75

Which of the following is the PRIMARY objective of AI governance?

- A. Implementing compliance and ethics controls for AI initiatives
- B. Promoting a positive return on investment (ROI) from AI projects
- C. Ensuring controls over AI are designed well and operate effectively
- D. Defining clear roles and responsibilities for AI development, use, and oversight

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 76

An AI social media platform uses an algorithm to increase user engagement that could unintentionally promote divisive content. Which of the following is the BEST course of action to mitigate this risk?

- A. Introduce controls allowing individuals to customize content preferences.
- B. Suspend the algorithm until concerns are addressed.
- C. Obtain users' consent for the content they wish to view.
- D. Regularly audit and adjust algorithms to reduce biases.

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 77

Which of the following is the GREATEST benefit of using AI to evaluate data quality during an audit?

- A. Processing cost associated with data analytics
- B. Efficiency of reviewing procedures for compliance with regulations
- C. Identifying outliers indicating data errors affecting model predictions
- D. Ability to utilize sample data population for model predictions

Answer: C

Explanation:

Traditional data quality checks often rely on manual sampling, which can miss rare but significant errors. AI-driven audit tools can analyze 100% of a population to "identify outliers" that represent data errors, anomalies, or potential fraud. According to the AAIA™ framework, identifying these outliers is crucial because "dirty data" can fundamentally skew AI model predictions and audit conclusions. By automating the detection of data inconsistencies, auditors can focus their manual efforts on investigating high-risk items, thereby increasing both the accuracy of the audit and the overall reliability of the data used for model training.

NEW QUESTION # 78

Which of the following do supervised AI learning models PRIMARILY use to train algorithms?

- A. Clustered data sets
- B. Unlabeled data sets
- C. Randomized data sets
- D. Labeled data sets

Answer: D

Explanation:

Supervised learning is a foundational type of machine learning in which the model is trained on a labeled dataset. According to the AAIA™ Study Guide, labeled data includes input features along with the correct output, enabling the model to learn the mapping function accurately.

"In supervised learning, models learn from input-output pairs provided in the training data. This method enables predictive modeling tasks such as classification and regression." Unlabeled data (A) is used in unsupervised learning; clustered data (B) is a technique rather than a data type; and randomized data (D) refers to distribution strategy, not labeling. Hence, labeled data is the correct answer.

NEW QUESTION # 79

Which of the following is the GREATEST benefit of integrating AI in ransomware prevention?

- A. Maintaining the confidentiality of threat intelligence analysis
- B. Analyzing large volumes of data to enhance detection of anomalies
- C. Enabling more rapid identification of parties responsible for attacks
- D. Reducing resources required for traditional cybersecurity defenses

Answer: B

Explanation:

Ransomware often involves subtle, unusual patterns of data access and encryption activity. The primary advantage of AI is its ability to "Analyze large volumes of data in real-time" to identify behavioral anomalies that traditional signature-based security tools might miss. AI can detect "Zero-Day" ransomware by recognizing the intent of malicious actions (such as rapid file renaming or unauthorized encryption). This proactive detection is critical for stopping an attack before data exfiltration or total system lockout occurs.

While identifying attackers (Option C) or saving resources (Option D) are helpful, the core security value is the enhanced detection capability provided by AI-driven anomaly analysis.
