IAPP Certified Information Privacy Technologist (CIPT) Sample Questions (Q17-Q22):

NEW QUESTION # 17

What is the most effective first step to take to operationalize Privacy by Design principles in new product development and projects?

- A. Conduct annual Privacy by Design training and refreshers for all impacted personnel.
- B. Implementing a mandatory privacy review and legal approval process.
- C. Obtain leadership buy-in for a mandatory privacy review and approval process.
- D. Set up an online Privacy Impact Assessment tool to facilitate Privacy by Design compliance.

Answer: C

Explanation:

The most effective first step to operationalize Privacy by Design principles in new product development and projects is to obtain leadership buy-in for a mandatory privacy review and approval process. Leadership support is crucial for integrating privacy considerations into the core processes and ensuring that privacy becomes a priority throughout the organization. According to IAPP, gaining the commitment of top management sets the tone for the entire organization, fostering a culture that values and prioritizes privacy, thereby facilitating the successful implementation of Privacy by Design principles.

NEW QUESTION # 18

In day to day interactions with technology, consumers are presented with privacy choices. Which of the following best represents the Privacy by Design (PbD) methodology of letting the user choose a non-zero-sum choice?

- A. Displaying the percentage of users that chose a particular option, thus enabling the user to choose the most preferred option.
- B. Using contexts, antecedent events, and other priming concepts to assist the user in making a better privacy choice.
- C. Providing plain-language design choices that elicit privacy-related responses, helping users avoid errors and minimize the negative consequences of errors when they do occur.
- D. Using images, words, and contexts to elicit positive feelings that result in proactive behavior, thus eliminating negativity and biases.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 19

Not updating software for a system that processes human resources data with the latest security patches may create what?

- A. Privacy vulnerabilities.
- B. Authentication issues.
- C. Privacy threat vectors.
- D. Reportable privacy violations.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Not updating software with the latest security patches can expose systems to various vulnerabilities, including those that can compromise privacy. When systems processing sensitive data, such as human resources data, are not updated, they become susceptible to security exploits that can lead to unauthorized access or data breaches. This negligence creates privacy vulnerabilities because it increases the risk that personal data could be accessed, stolen, or altered by malicious actors. Privacy vulnerabilities are essentially weaknesses in a system that could be exploited to compromise the privacy of data subjects. This concept is emphasized in the IAPP's training materials, which highlight the importance of maintaining up-to-date software as part of a robust data protection strategy.

NEW QUESTION # 20

Which of the following became a foundation for privacy principles and practices of countries and organizations across the globe?

- A. The Code of Fair Information Practices.
- B. The Personal Data Ordinance.
- C. The Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) Privacy Principles.
- D. The EU Data Protection Directive.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Reference:

The Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) Privacy Principles became a foundation for privacy principles and practices of countries and organizations across the globe<sup>4</sup>. The OECD Privacy Principles were adopted by OECD member countries in 1980 as a set of eight basic principles for ensuring adequate protection of personal data across national borders<sup>4</sup>. The OECD Privacy Principles have been widely recognized as an international standard for data protection and have influenced many regional and national laws and frameworks<sup>4</sup>.

NEW QUESTION # 21

What element is most conducive to fostering a sound privacy by design culture in an organization?

- A. Monthly reviews of organizational privacy principles.
- B. Gaining advocacy from senior management.
- C. Ensuring all employees acknowledge and understood the privacy policy.
- D. Frequent privacy and security awareness training for employees.

Answer: B

Explanation:

A strong privacy by design culture within an organization is best fostered when senior management advocates for and supports privacy initiatives. The IAPP documentation underscores that leadership commitment is crucial for establishing and maintaining a robust privacy program. Senior management advocacy ensures that privacy considerations are prioritized across the organization, leading to more effective implementation of privacy by design principles and a stronger overall privacy culture.
