NEW QUESTION # 244

One of the elements used to define the impact of a loss in dollars is:

- A. Probability
- B. Risk
- C. Criticality
- D. Annual loss expectancy

Answer: D

Explanation:

Annual Loss Expectancy (ALE) is a key financial metric used in risk management to estimate the potential dollar loss per year due to a specific risk. It is calculated as:

$ALE = \text{Single Loss Expectancy (SLE)} \times \text{Annual Rate of Occurrence (ARO)}$.

This helps quantify the financial impact of a threat, allowing better prioritization and budgeting for mitigation efforts.

B (Probability) is part of the ALE calculation but not a dollar-value measure.

C (Criticality) relates to function importance but not direct financial impact.

D (Risk) is broader and includes impact and likelihood, but ALE specifically quantifies impact in dollars.
