Network Appliance NetApp Certified AI Expert Exam Sample Questions (Q18-Q23):

NEW QUESTION # 18

The architect needs to design an efficient data flow to move curated training sets from the central StorageGRID data lake to the high-performance NetApp ASA system used by the AI cluster. The process must be manageable from a single interface and should be automatable. Which two NetApp technologies should be used to implement this data pipeline stage? (Choose 2.)

- A. NetApp BlueXP copy and sync service to create and manage the data synchronization relationship between the S3 source and the NFS/CIFS destination.
- B. NetApp FabricPool to automatically tier the data from StorageGRID to the ASA.
- C. NetApp SnapMirror to replicate data from the StorageGRID object store to the ASA's file system.
- D. A custom Python script using the NetApp DataOps Toolkit to trigger the data movement.
- E. A manual copy process using an S3 client on a bastion host.

Answer: A,D

NEW QUESTION # 19

The firm's data science team needs to run a high-priority, interactive model analysis job that requires immediate access to two GPUs. However, all GPUs in the cluster are currently allocated to long-running, lower-priority batch training jobs.

The MLOps platform, Run:AI, shows the following queue status:

JOB_ID | PROJECT | STATUS | PRIORITY | GPU_ALLOCATED

```
||--|
```

```
batch_job_1 | team_a | Running | Low | 2
```

```
batch_job_2 | team_a | Running | Low | 2
```

```
batch_job_3 | team_b | Running | Low | 4
```

```
interactive_1 | team_c | Pending | High | 2 (requested)
```

How does the Run:AI platform address this resource contention to allow the high-priority job to run?

- A. It sends an email notification to the administrator to manually reallocate the GPUs.
- B. It automatically pauses one of the low-priority jobs, saves its state, and allocates its GPUs to the high-priority job, placing the paused job back in the queue.
- C. It keeps the high-priority job in a pending state until the low-priority jobs complete naturally.
- D. It automatically terminates all low-priority jobs to free up the entire cluster.

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 20

A new team of external auditors requires read-only access to the raw financial product documentation stored in the StorageGRID data lake. The data is in a bucket named 'prod-docs'.

The security team must ensure the auditors can list and read objects but cannot write, delete, or modify any data. Which is the most appropriate method to grant this specific access?

- A. Create a new StorageGRID tenant account for the auditors with full S3 access.
- B. Provide the auditors with the root access keys for the StorageGRID system.
- C. Create a new group and user within StorageGRID, and attach an S3 group policy that explicitly allows only 's3:GetObject' and 's3:ListBucket' actions on the 'prod-docs' bucket.
- D. Configure an NFS export policy on the 'prod-docs' bucket and provide the auditors with the mount path.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 21

Advisors report that some queries to the chatbot are unacceptably slow, taking several seconds to respond. The MLOps team isolates the issue to the RAG retrieval step. Performance monitoring of the NetApp AFF A-Series hosting the vector database shows the following metrics during periods of high query load.

avg_read_latency: 3500 microseconds (3.5 ms)

avg_write_latency: 400 microseconds (0.4 ms)

iops_total: 15,000

cpu_utilization_storage_node: 15%

workload_profile: 95% small, random reads

Given these metrics, what is the most likely performance bottleneck?

- A. The network between the application and the storage system is saturated.
- B. The vector database is poorly indexed, causing inefficient, slow lookups that translate to high read latency on the storage.
- C. The AFF A-Series system is underpowered and cannot handle the IOPS load.
- D. The storage node CPU is the bottleneck, preventing faster data processing.

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 22

An organization's AI platform team needs to provide two distinct tiers of storage for their data scientists on a single Kubernetes cluster:

1. 'gold-tier': Extremely low-latency storage for active model training, using an all-flash NetApp ASA system.
 2. 'bronze-tier': Cost-effective, high-capacity storage for data staging and archiving, using a NetApp StorageGRID system.
- How should the platform team configure NetApp Trident to meet these requirements? (Select all that apply.)

- A. Configure the 'bronze-tier' StorageClass to reference the StorageGRID backend.
- B. Create two separate Trident backend configurations, one for the ASA ('backend-asa.yaml') and one for StorageGRID ('backend-sgrid.yaml').
- C. Create a single Trident backend that points to both the ASA and StorageGRID systems simultaneously.
- D. Create a single StorageClass named 'multi-tier-storage' that references both backends.
- E. Configure the 'gold-tier' StorageClass to reference the ASA backend.
- F. Create two distinct StorageClasses, 'gold-tier' and 'bronze-tier'.

Answer: A,B,E,F
