OCPE Pesticide Applicator Category 7A General and Household Pest Control Exam Sample Questions (Q69-Q74):

NEW QUESTION # 69

Carbamate and pyrethroid pesticides are:

- A. Nerve poisons
- B. Nonpoisonous
- C. Stomach/digestive poisons

Answer: A

Explanation:

Carbamate and pyrethroid pesticides are both classes of insecticides that act as nerve poisons. They target the nervous system of pests, disrupting nerve function and leading to paralysis and death.

Carbamates inhibit cholinesterase enzymes, while pyrethroids affect sodium channels in nerve cells.

This is detailed in the General Pest Management: Guide for Commercial Applicators - Category 7A (Chapter 6: Pesticide Types).

Option A (stomach/digestive poisons) is incorrect, as these pesticides primarily act through contact or inhalation, not ingestion.

Option B (nonpoisonous) is incorrect, as both are toxic to pests and potentially harmful to humans if mishandled.

NEW QUESTION # 70

Should a pesticide spill contaminate the soil, the DEP Pesticide Control Program should be contacted at:

- A. 1-877 WARNDEP
- B. 1-800 CALLDEP
- C. 0

Answer: A

Explanation:

The NJDEP Pesticide Control Program provides a hotline for reporting pesticide spills or emergencies:

1-877-WARNDEP (1-877-927-6337). This number is used to report incidents like soil contamination from a pesticide spill, ensuring proper response and mitigation. Option A (1-800-CALLDEP) is not the correct hotline number. Option C (911) is for immediate life-threatening emergencies, not specific pesticide spill reporting, though it may be used in extreme cases.

NEW QUESTION # 71

The most common cause of pesticide poisoning to the applicator is:

- A. Oral ingestion
- B. Dermal exposure
- C. Inhalation

Answer: B

Explanation:

The most common cause of pesticide poisoning for applicators is dermal exposure, where pesticides contact the skin during mixing, application, or cleanup. The General Pest Management: Guide for Commercial Applicators - Category 7A (Chapter 3: Pesticide Safety) highlights that skin exposure often occurs during mixing procedures or application, especially if proper protective equipment is not used.

Option A (inhalation) is the second most common cause (see Question 16). Option B (oral ingestion) is less common, typically occurring through accidental ingestion or poor hygiene practices.

NEW QUESTION # 72

Pesticide labels often specify the type of respirator to be used by its TC designation. Which of the following is the chemical cartridge respirator designation?

- A. TC-23
- B. TC-19
- C. TC-84

Answer: A

Explanation:

The TC designation is assigned by the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH) to classify respirators. TC-23 designates chemical cartridge respirators, which are used to protect against specific gases and vapors, as specified on pesticide labels for Category 7A applications. The General Pest Management: Guide for Commercial Applicators - Category 7A (Chapter 3: Pesticide Safety) notes that TC-23 respirators are commonly required for pesticide applications involving volatile chemicals. Option A (TC-84) refers to particulate respirators (e.g., N95 masks). Option C (TC-19) is not a valid designation for pesticide use.

NEW QUESTION # 73

The ___ tick is responsible for transmitting Lyme disease in New Jersey.

- A. Blacklegged
- B. Lone star
- C. Dog

Answer: A

Explanation:

The blacklegged tick (Ixodes scapularis), also known as the deer tick, is the primary vector for Lyme disease in New Jersey. The General Pest Management: Guide for Commercial Applicators - Category 7A (Chapter 7: Ticks) identifies this species as the main transmitter in the northeastern U.S. Option A (dog tick) transmits other diseases like Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever. Option B (lone star tick) is associated with other illnesses, not Lyme disease.
