E Series - Entry Level

The E Series offers a smaller footprint with its 1U1N form factor. Similar to the G Series, the E Series can be successfully deployed anywhere from data center core to edge deployments. The combination of density, disk groups, and balance of resources in a low profile 1U form factor enables it to be deployed for a wide range of use cases.

- All-flash, all NVMe, or hybrid options available
- Up to 61.44 TB/node capacity available
- Intel Xeon Scalable Processors or AMD EPYC 7002 Series Processors
- GPUs optionally available

NEW QUESTION # 341

Which requirement must be met when expanding a 3-node VxRail G560F cluster with a fourth G Series node in the same chassis?

- A. Node requires only the same drive configuration
- B. Node hardware must be identical to the other three nodes
- C. PCIe network card must be added to all nodes
- D. New node must be at the same VxRail version as existing nodes

Answer: B

Explanation:

Text Description automatically generated

A few basic rules regarding scaling must be considered:

- The first three nodes in a cluster must have identical configuration. Once the initial VxRail cluster is built, other node types can be added to the cluster.
- All nodes within the cluster must be running the same software version.
- All-flash, all-NVMe, and Hybrid nodes cannot be mixed in the same cluster. However, mixing of all-flash and NVMe nodes in a cluster is allowed.
- Mixing VxRail nodes with different base networking speeds (1 GbE, 10 GbE and 25 GbE) is not permitted in the same cluster.
- 1 GbE must be hybrid, and single processor node type.
- A cluster using 1 GbE networking can only have a maximum of eight nodes.
- For G Series, all nodes in a chassis must be identical. A G Series chassis can be partially populated.
- AMD-based nodes and Intel-based nodes cannot be placed in the same cluster.
