NEW QUESTION # 13
Administrators at Bloomington Caregivers track patients1 doctor visits in Health Cloud. The administrators need to send all of their patients' visit information to their Enterprise Resource Planning (ERP) system for a weekly billing cycle.
Which integration pattern should a consultant recommend for this?

- A. ERP system to call the FHIR Billing API in Health Cloud
- B. Request and Reply with an Enterprise Service Bus (ESB) tool
- C. Fire and Forget with an Enterprise Service Bus (ESB) tool
- D. Nightly batch extract using an Extract, Transform, and Load (ETL) tool

Answer: D

Explanation:
For a weekly billing cycle, the most appropriate integration pattern is a nightly batch extract using an ETL tool. This approach efficiently handles large volumes of patient visit data while preparing it for billing in the ERP system.
Key Features of Nightly Batch ETL:
* Scheduled Processing: Automates the extraction and transformation of visit data at predefined intervals (e.g., nightly).
* Data Transformation: Formats the data as required by the ERP system.
* Scalability: Efficiently handles large datasets for periodic billing processes.
Why Other Options Are Incorrect:
* B. Fire and Forget with ESB: Not suitable for scheduled bulk data processing. Fire-and-forget is better suited for real-time, event-driven integrations.
* C. Request and Reply with ESB: Used for synchronous, real-time integrations, which is unnecessary for a weekly billing cycle.
* D. FHIR Billing API: Health Cloud does not natively provide a FHIR Billing API, and this option assumes capabilities that Salesforce does not currently offer.
