EXIN Certified Data Centre Professional (CDCP) Sample Questions (Q33-Q38):

NEW QUESTION # 33

How many monitoring points should be used in Temperature Measurement?

- A. 0
- B. 1
- C. 2
- D. 3

Answer: A

Explanation:

According to the EPI Data Centre Professional (CDCP®) Reference Materials, the recommended number of monitoring points for temperature measurement in a data centre is 3 per rack: one at the top, one at the middle, and one at the bottom. This is to ensure that the temperature distribution within the rack is uniform and within the acceptable range for the equipment. The temperature sensors should be placed at the front of the rack, where the air enters the equipment, and not at the back, where the hot air exits. NEW QUESTION # 34

New server equipment is arriving at your data centre, where should it be tested?

- A. In the Media storage area
- B. In the Holding area
- C. In the Computer! Server room
- D. In the Staging room

Answer: D

Explanation:

New equipment should be unpacked, tested, and configured in a dedicated staging room before being moved to the live data hall to prevent contamination and disruptions.

NEW QUESTION # 35

When having two non-synchronized power sources, the ATS / STS need to be of the type:

- A. Both an ATS and STS can never handle two non-synchronized sources.
- B. Both make before break or break before make can be used.
- C. Make before break.
- D. Break before make.

Answer: D

Explanation:

When having two non-synchronized power sources, the ATS / STS need to be of the type break before make, which means that the switch disconnects from one source before connecting to the other source. This prevents any short circuit, back feed, or phase mismatch that could occur if the two sources were connected simultaneously. Break before make switches are also known as open transition switches, because they create a brief interruption in the power supply during the switching process. This interruption is usually acceptable for most ICT equipment, as they have internal power supplies or batteries that can handle the transient. However, if the interruption is not acceptable, then the two power sources need to be synchronized before switching, which requires a make before break switch, also known as a closed transition switch. Make before break switches connect to the second source before disconnecting from the first source, which ensures a seamless transfer of power without any interruption. However, make before break switches require that the two sources have the same voltage, frequency, and phase, which can be achieved by using a synchronization module or a phase-locked loop.

NEW QUESTION # 36

Which type of Fire Detection Device is recommended for protecting a Data Center?

- A. Heat detector
- B. Smoke detector
- C. Flame detector
- D. None of the above

Answer: B

Explanation:

According to the CDCP Preparation Guide, smoke detectors are the most common type of fire detection devices used in data centers, as they can detect a fire in its early stages and provide early warning to the occupants and authorities. Smoke detectors can be either spot-type or air-aspirating, depending on the design and goals of the data center. Spot-type detectors are inexpensive and simple, but may cause activation delay and false alarms. Air-aspirating detectors are more sensitive and reliable, but may require more maintenance and installation costs. Both types of detectors should be installed in accordance with the relevant standards and codes, such as NFPA 72 and EN 54.

NEW QUESTION # 37

Cost of Downtime can be classified as.

- A. Direct and Indirect
- B. Up and Down
- C. Classified and Declassified
- D. Mean and Median

Answer: A

Explanation:

Cost of downtime is the total amount of money lost due to a data centre outage or disruption. It can be classified into two categories: direct and indirect. Direct costs are the immediate and measurable expenses incurred during or after an outage, such as lost revenue, lost productivity, recovery costs, compensation costs, penalties, etc. Indirect costs are the long-term and intangible impacts of an outage, such as reputation damage, customer dissatisfaction, loss of market share, legal liabilities, etc. Both direct and indirect costs can vary depending on the type, duration, and severity of the outage, as well as the industry, size, and location of the data centre.
