Questions (Q29-Q34):

NEW QUESTION # 29

When you create an exception class, what does SAP recommend you do?

(Select 3 correct answers)

- A. Implement interface `if_t100_message`, if you want to reuse messages from a message class.
- B. Inherit from `cx_no_check`, if you want to reuse messages from a system exception class.
- C. Inherit from `cx_static_check`, if you want a warning at design time that the exception can never be raised.
- D. Inherit from `cx_static_check`, if you want a warning at design time that the exception will not be caught.
- E. Define corresponding public attributes, if you want to pass context-specific values to placeholders of a message.

Answer: A,D,E

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed Explanation from Exact Extract:

- * A # Recommended to define attributes for message placeholders.
- * C # Inheriting from `cx_static_check` enforces compile-time checks to ensure exceptions are handled.
- * E # Implementing `if_t100_message` allows integration with message classes.
- * B # Misleading, design-time warning is about handling, not raising.
- * D # Not a recommended practice in ABAP Cloud (system classes are not extendable).

NEW QUESTION # 30

In what order are objects created to generate a RESTful Application Programming application?

□

Answer:

Explanation:

□ Explanation:

Database table

Data model view

Projection view

Service definition

Service binding

In RAP, the development flow follows a bottom-up approach, beginning with persistence and ending with OData exposure:

- * Database table: The persistence layer where data is stored. This is the foundation of the business object model.
- * Data model view (CDS entity): The CDS view is defined on top of the database table to provide a semantic data model. It represents entities like Travel or Booking.
- * Projection view: Provides an abstraction of the data model view and controls which fields and associations are exposed externally.
- * Service definition: Specifies which projection views (entities) are exposed in the OData service.
- * Service binding: Connects the service definition to a communication protocol (e.g., OData V2 or V4), generating the final consumable service endpoint.

This sequence ensures a layered architecture consistent with RAP guidelines:

- * Persistence layer # Data model layer # Projection layer # Service layer # Binding to protocol.
