- B. Application login failure because of incorrect credentials
- C. Internet connection failure in case of a web application usage
- D. Input data does not pass validation criteria

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 103
What would be the most cost effective way to extract an email address from a structured document?

- A. Using the Form Extractor
- B. Using the ML Extractor in combination with an ML model
- C. Using the RegEx extractor
- D. Using FormsAI

Answer: C

Explanation:
The most cost-effective way to extract an email address from a structured document is by using the RegEx extractor. This method is efficient because regular expressions can be tailored to match the specific pattern of email addresses without the need for more complex and resource-intensive tools. The RegEx extractor is particularly suitable for structured documents where the format is predictable and consistent, making it easy to identify and extract email addresses based on their common patterns1.
References: The use of RegEx for extracting information from structured documents is a common practice in RPA and is supported by discussions in the UiPath Community Forum, where similar methods are recommended for data extraction tasks1.

Reports (A): Focuses on analytics and metrics, not clustering.
Validation (B): Deals with model performance and training, not message grouping.

- B. To evaluate the feasibility of the automation solution

- C. To design the automation solution
- D. To identify potential automation opportunities

Answer: A

Explanation:
The purpose of creating an AS IS process map during the business analysis phase for RPA is to understand the current state of the business process. - C. Outputs from each test case, including successful and unsuccessful results, which the Business Analyst must keep track of and report.
- D. All the information in the Runbook document template, which the Business Analyst must verify for accuracy.

Answer: B

Explanation:
Test Data in UAT: In the User Acceptance Testing (UAT) phase, test data refers to the inputs required to simulate real-world scenarios for validating the automation's functionality and performance.
Examples include transaction lists, business documents, and emails.
This data ensures the automation handles variations effectively and aligns with business needs.
Role of Business Analyst: The Business Analyst ensures that test data is accurately mapped to use cases and validates that it reflects actual business processes.
Stakeholder Collaboration: While expected outcomes and results are important, they are derived from inputs (test data). Proper mapping of test data is critical to achieve realistic and reliable UAT results.
