NEW QUESTION # 44

To which document type would you assign the event profile to calculate event-based charges in a rail transport?

- A. Transportation unit
- B. Freight unit
- C. Freight booking
- D. Freight order

Answer: C

Explanation:
In SAP S/4HANA Transportation Management, event-based charges (e.g., for delays or additional services) are calculated based on transportation events captured in the system. For rail transport, the freight booking is the document type used to manage transportation execution, including event tracking. According to the SAP documentation, the event profile, which defines how events trigger charges, is assigned to the freight booking type to calculate event-based charges, such as detention or demurrage, specific to rail or ocean transport scenarios.
The other options are incorrect:
* Transportation unit (A) represents physical transport units (e.g., containers) but is not used for event- based charge calculations.
* Freight unit (C) is used for planning and tracking goods but does not manage events for charge calculations.
* Freight order (D) is used for road transport and does not typically handle event-based charges for rail transport.
