NEW QUESTION # 292

Which of the following statements about ICMP functions is FALSE?

- A. Provides an automatic re-route if destination is unreachable.

- B. Utilizes different return codes for error reporting.
- C. Used to test end-to-end connectivity.
- D. Can be used to identify the hops that traffic must pass through to get to the destination.

Answer: A

Explanation:

ICMP (Internet Control Message Protocol) is used for network diagnostics and error messaging. Key uses include:

- * Ping (Echo Request/Reply)- tests end-to-end connectivity#
- * Traceroute- uses ICMP time exceeded messages to identify hops#
- * Error reporting- returns various error types with different codes#

However, ICMP does not re-route traffic. If a destination is unreachable, ICMP reports the error back to the sender; it doesn't instruct routers to re-route.

- * Option D is FALSE- ICMP does not perform routing.
