CompTIA Cloud+ (CV0-004) Certification Exam Sample Questions (Q86-Q91):

NEW QUESTION # 86

Which of the following describes what CRUD is typically used for?

- A. Relational databases
- B. Time series databases
- C. Graph databases
- D. NoSQL databases

Answer: A

Explanation:

CRUD stands for Create, Read, Update, Delete, and it is most commonly used for interacting with relational databases. These operations form the basis of persistent storage manipulation in most applications that use a database to store data. References: CompTIA Cloud+ Guide to Cloud Computing (ISBN: 978-1-64274-282-2)

NEW QUESTION # 87

During project initiation, a project manager needs to identify goals and deliverables that should be completed by the end of the project and also meet certain cost and time factors. Which of the following would best align with these needs?

- A. Change log
- B. Work breakdown structure
- C. Project success criteria
- D. Milestone chart

Answer: C

Explanation:

Project success criteria are the standards used to evaluate whether a project has met its goals within cost, time, and quality boundaries. These are defined early in initiation and form part of governance to ensure alignment with business value. WBS and milestones come later during planning and scheduling.

NEW QUESTION # 88

A cloud service provider just launched a new serverless service that is compliant with all security regulations. A company deployed its code using the service, and the company's application was hacked due to leaked credentials. Which of the following is responsible?

- A. Customer
- B. Code repository
- C. Hacker
- D. Cloud service provider

Answer: A

Explanation:

Comprehensive and Detailed Step-by-Step

A . Customer: Under the shared responsibility model, customers are responsible for securing their code and credentials in cloud environments.

B . Cloud service provider: Responsible for securing the underlying infrastructure, not customer-deployed applications or credentials.

C . Hacker: Exploited the breach but isn't directly responsible for security lapses.

D . Code repository: Doesn't inherently cause the issue unless mismanaged by the customer.

Reference:

CompTIA Cloud+ CV0-004 Study Guide, Objective 4.2: Understand the shared responsibility model in cloud security.

NEW QUESTION # 89

A cloud engineer is provisioning a new application that requires access to the organization's public cloud resources. Which of the following is the best way for the cloud engineer to authenticate the application?

- A. Username and Password
- B. Access key
- C. API
- D. MFA token

Answer: B

Explanation:

The best way to authenticate an application requiring access to an organization's public cloud resources is through the use of an access key. Access keys provide a secure means of authentication for applications and services without the need for interactive login credentials. This method is particularly useful for automated processes or applications that need to interact with cloud services programmatically, ensuring secure and efficient access control. References: CompTIA Cloud+ content emphasizes the importance of secure authentication mechanisms, such as access keys, in managing and securing access to cloud resources, aligning with best practices for cloud security and application deployment.

SIMULATION 2

To view the entire simulation, click the X in the upper-right corner of this window.

A highly regulated business is required to work remotely and the risk tolerance is very low. You are tasked with providing an identity solution to the company cloud that includes the following:

- secure connectivity that minimizes user login
- tracks user activity and monitors for anomalous activity
- requires secondary authentication

INSTRUCTIONS

Select controls and servers for me proper control points.

It at any time you would like to bring back the initial state of the simulation, please click the Reset All button.

Answer:

Explanation:

Explanation:

First Cloud Service Provider Dropdown (Password Management):

Single Sign-On (SSO): This reduces the need for multiple logins, making it easier for users to securely access cloud services with minimal login requirements.

Second Cloud Service Provider Dropdown (Password Management):

Multi-Factor Authentication (MFA): To fulfill the requirement for secondary authentication, adding MFA strengthens access security by requiring an additional factor beyond just passwords.

Database Server Dropdown:

Security Information and Event Management (SIEM): This control is ideal for tracking user activity and monitoring for anomalous activity, as it can analyze and log activities across the network, providing valuable insights into potential security threats.
