Target Audience and Prerequisites

This certification test is intended for those specialists who are responsible for designing and building Cloud-based software solutions utilizing the Microsoft Azure platform. The candidates for this exam should have at least one to two years of experience with Microsoft Azure. They should also have the ability to accomplish programming tasks in a language that is supported by Azure. In addition, the applicants must be proficient in Azure PowerShell, Azure SDKs, app authentication and authorization, Azure CLI, APIs, monitoring, debugging, performance tuning, data connections, and data storage options.

In general, there are no special requirements that Microsoft lists for its AZ-204 Exam. But it is recommended that the students taking this test have the subject matter expertise in building, evaluating, designing, and maintaining Cloud applications and services particularly on Microsoft responsibilities for an Azure Developer.
