NEW QUESTION # 97
Multiple users in your organization are reporting that Calendar invitations sent from a specific department are not being received. You verified that the invitations are being sent and there are no error messages in the sender's logs. You want to troubleshoot the issue. What should you do?

- A. Verify that the senders in the specific department have the necessary permissions to share their calendars externally and send invitations outside of the organization.
- B. Check the affected users' Calendar settings to confirm whether they have accidentally blocked invitations from the specific department.
- C. Analyze the message headers of the sent invitations by using the Google Admin Toolbox to identify any delivery issues.
- D. Disable and re-enable the Calendar service for the affected users to refresh their connection.

Answer: C

Explanation:
Using the Google Admin Toolbox to analyze the message headers of the sent invitations helps you identify if there are any issues with the delivery of the invitations, such as misrouted messages or issues with email delivery to the affected users. This approach will give you detailed information on what might be causing the issue, even if no error messages appear in the sender's logs.

NEW QUESTION # 98
Your company has just acquired a new group of users. They have been provisioned into the Google Workspace environment with your primary domain as their primary email address. These new users still need to receive emails from their previous domain. What is the best way to achieve this for these new users, without updating the information of preexisting users?

- A. Add the acquired domain as an alias to the primary Google Workspace domain.
- B. Without adding a domain, update each user's email information with the previous domain.
- C. Add the acquired domain as a secondary domain to the primary Google Workspace domain, and then update the email information of all new users with alias emails.
- D. Update the Google-provided test domain to be the domain of the acquired company, and then update the email information of all new users with alias emails.

Answer: C

Explanation:
To ensure new users receive emails from their previous domain without affecting existing users:
Add the acquired domain as a secondary domain to the primary Google Workspace domain.
Update the email information of all new users to include alias emails from the previous domain. This allows them to receive emails sent to their old addresses.
This method segregates the old and new user groups effectively and maintains the integrity of the email addresses.

NEW QUESTION # 99
A user is reporting that external, inbound messages from known senders are repeatedly being incorrectly classified as spam. What steps should the admin take to prevent this behavior in the future?

- A. Instruct the user to add the senders to their contacts.
- B. Update the spam settings in the Admin Console to be less aggressive.
- C. Add the sender's domain to an allowlist via approved senders in the Admin Console.
- D. Modify the SPF record for your internal domain to include the IPs of the external user's mail servers.

Answer: C

Explanation:
To prevent external, inbound messages from known senders from being incorrectly classified as spam, add the sender's domain to an allowlist in the Admin console.
* Access Gmail Settings in Admin Console:
* Go to the Google Admin console.
* Navigate to Apps > Google Workspace > Gmail > Spam, Phishing, and Malware.
* Add Approved Senders:
* In the Spam settings, find the section for "Email whitelist" or "Approved senders".
* Click on "Configure" to add a new entry.
* Specify the Sender's Domain:
* Enter the domain of the external sender that needs to be allowed.

* Save the changes to update the whitelist.
* Verify and Monitor:
* Ensure that the settings are applied and monitor the spam filter to confirm that the known sender's emails are no longer being flagged as spam.

You need to ensure that data owned by former employees remains available in Google Vault. You want to use the most cost-effective solution.
What should you do?

* A. Change the Google account passwords of the former employees.
* B. Migrate the former employees' Gmail to their manager(s) by using the data migration service during the deletion process. Transfer the former employees' Google Drive files to a new owner.
* C. Assign an Archived User license to the former employees' Google accounts.
* D. Suspend the former employees' Google accounts. Create an organizational unit (OU). Move the former employees into that OU.

Answer: D

Explanation:
Suspending the accounts of former employees while moving them to a dedicated organizational unit (OU) ensures that their data remains in Google Vault and accessible without the need for additional licenses. This is a cost-effective solution because suspending the account keeps the data intact but prevents the employees from accessing their accounts.
