APICS Certified in Planning and Inventory Management (CPIM 8.0) Sample Questions (Q51-Q56):

NEW QUESTION # 51

A company's Marketing and Sales departments have identified an opportunity to develop a new market for a product family and requested an increase in the production plan. Which of the following actions would be most appropriate to account for the new market opportunity?

- A. Regenerate the material requirements plan.
- B. Increase the production plan as requested.
- C. Regenerate the master production schedule (MPS).
- D. Present the proposal at the executive sales and operations (S&OP) meeting.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Sales and Operations Planning (S&OP) is the proper forum for evaluating cross-functional impacts of a change in demand, including capacity, supply, and financial implications. Executive-level S&OP meetings align demand and supply decisions and ensure that changes in strategic direction are reviewed and approved.

"The S&OP executive meeting is where demand and supply plans are balanced and decisions are made on resource changes or market actions."
