NEW QUESTION # 239
Universal containers (UC) is setting up Delegated Authentication to allow employees to log in using their corporate credentials. UC's security team is concerned about the risk of exposing the corporate login service on the Internet and has asked that a reliable trust mechanism be put in place between the login service and salesforce. What mechanism should an architect put in place to enable a trusted connection between the login services and salesforce?

- A. Require the use of Salesforce security Tokens on password.
- B. Enforce mutual Authentication between systems using SSL.
- C. Set up a proxy server for the login service in the DMZ.
- D. Include client ID and client secret in the login header callout.

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 240
What item should an Architect consider when designing a Delegated Authentication implementation?

- A. The Web service should be secured with TLS using Salesforce trusted certificates.
- B. The web service should use the Salesforce Federation ID to identify the user.
- C. The Web service should implement a custom password decryption method.
- D. The Web service should be able to accept one to four input method parameters.

Answer: A

Explanation:
The web service that is used for delegated authentication should be secured with TLS using Salesforce trusted certificates4. This ensures that the communication between Salesforce and the external authentication method is encrypted and authenticated. The other options are not relevant for designing a delegated authentication implementation. The web service does not need to accept one to four input method parameters, as it can accept any number of parameters as long as they are wrapped in a SOAP envelope5. The web service does not need to use the Salesforce Federation ID to identify the user, as it can use any identifier that is unique and consistent across systems6. The web service does not need to implement a custom password decryption method, as it can use any encryption or hashing algorithm that is supported by both systems7.

NEW QUESTION # 241
Universal Containers (UC) uses Salesforce to allow customers to keep track of the order status. The customers can log in to Salesforce using external authentication providers, such as Facebook and Google. UC is also leveraging the App Launcher to let customers access an of platform application for generating shipping labels.
The label generator application uses OAuth to provide users access. What license type should an Architect recommend for the customers?

- A. External Identity license
- B. Customer Community license
- C. Customer Community Plus license
- D. Identity license

Answer: A

Explanation:
Explanation
D is correct because External Identity license is designed for customers who need to log in to Salesforce using external authentication providers, such as Facebook and Google. External Identity license also supports App Launcher, which allows customers to access other applications from Salesforce using OAuth or OpenID Connect .
A is incorrect because Customer Community license is designed for customers who need to access data and records in Salesforce, such as cases, accounts, and contacts. Customer Community license does not support App Launcher or external authentication providers.
B is incorrect because Identity license is designed for employees who need to access multiple applications from Salesforce using SSO and App Launcher. Identity license does not support external authentication providers or customer data access.
C is incorrect because Customer Community Plus license is designed for customers who need to access data and records in Salesforce, as well as collaborate with other customers and partners. Customer Community Plus license does not support App Launcher or external authentication providers.

- A. Implement Delegated Authentication that will update the user profiles as necessary.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 243

In a typical SSL setup involving a trusted party and trusting party, what consideration should an Architect take into account when using digital certificates?

- A. Use of self-signed certificate leads to higher maintenance for trusting party because the cert needs to be added to their truststore.
- B. Use of self-signed certificate leads to lowermaintenance for trusting party because there is no trusted CA cert to maintain.
- C. Use of self-signed certificate leads to lower maintenance for trusted party because multiple self-signed certs need to be maintained.
- D. Use of self-signed certificate leads to higher maintenance for trusted party because they have to act as the trusted CA

Answer: A

Explanation:
D is correct because using aself-signed certificate leads to higher maintenance for the trusting party, which is the client or browser that connects to the server. The trusting party needs to add the self-signed certificate to their truststore, which is a repository of trusted certificates, in order to establish a secure connection with the server. Otherwise, the trusting party will see a warning message or an error when accessing the server.
A is incorrect because using a self-signed certificate leads to higher maintenance for the trusted party, not lower. The trusted party needs to maintain multiple self-signed certificates from different servers in their truststore.
B is incorrect because using a self-signed certificate does not make the trusted party act as the trusted CA (Certificate Authority). The trusted CA is the entity that issues and validates certificates for servers. The trusted party only needs to trust the CA's root certificate, which is usually pre-installed in their truststore.
C is incorrect because using a self-signed certificate leads to higher maintenance for the trusting party, not lower. The trusting party still needs to maintain a trusted CA cert in their truststore, which is the self-signed certificate itself.
