A media company wants to use AEM as content hub for multiple customer touch points:

- * Brand-specific marketing websites hosted on AEM Sites
- * Single Page Applications using headless content
- * Native mobile applications
- * Content offers in Adobe Target

The company wants to manage its content efficiently with its small editor staff. Text should be entered and reviewed only once, then reused for all touch points.

How should an Architect incorporate these requirements into a solution that leverages AEM Sites features?

- A)
- B)
- C)
- D)

- A. OptionB
- B. OptionD
- C. OptionC
- D. OptionA

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 83

A client is modernizing some of their AEM sites to go from static to editable templates so they can use the latest features around has the following parameters:

- * The client currently has a dozen static templates that they want to move to editable templates.
- * The existing pages use the parsys paragraph system for storing components.
- * Each page based on one of the static templates has its own custom properties tab that is unique for that template type.

* The client wants template authors to be able to create the editable templates.
Which approach should an Architect use to meet these requirements?

- A. 1. Use a new page component for editable templates based on the core components page component
2. Migrate page properties to respective components dialogues
- B. 1. Use the same page components for editable templates
2. Use a new template type for each static template
- C. 1. Use the same page components for editable templates
2. Create a new editable template based on each of the existing page components
- D. 1. Use a new page component for editable templates based on the core components page component
2. Convert page properties to policies

Answer: A

Explanation:

Use a new page component for editable templates based on the core components page component and migrate page properties to respective components dialogues<sup>2</sup>. According to Adobe Experience Manager documentation<sup>1</sup>, static templates are not considered a best practice and editable templates should be used instead. AEM Modernization tools can help migrate from static to editable templates. Editable templates use core components as their base components<sup>2</sup> and page properties can be migrated to component dialogues using content policies<sup>2</sup>.
