Juniper Data Center, Specialist (JNCIS-DC) Sample Questions (Q62-Q67):

NEW QUESTION # 62
You are using Juniper Apstra to create logical devices and interface maps. You use them in three different rack types. You then modify the logical devices to support the required increased interface speeds and receive an error message when updating the logical devices.
Referring to the exhibit, which action is needed to remove the error?

- A. Remove any racks that reference the logical device.
- B. Remove any templates that reference the logical device.
- C. Remove any templates, racks, and interface maps that reference the logical device.
- D. Remove any interface maps that reference the logical device.

Answer: C

Explanation:

In Juniper Apstra, logical devices must remain semantically valid across all references (templates, racks, and interface maps). If you change interface speeds or roles, any existing references to that logical device can become inconsistent, leading to the validation error shown.

To resolve it, you must remove all dependencies - templates, racks, and interface maps - that reference the logical device, then recreate or update them with the modified logical device definition.

NEW QUESTION # 63

You must enable ECMP load balance in your three-stage eBGP IP Clos fabric. In this scenario, which two features are required? (Choose two.)

- A. A load-balance policy applied to the BGP group
- B. multipath multiple-as applied to the BGP group
- C. A load-balance policy applied to the forwarding table
- D. multihop applied to the BGP group

Answer: B,C

Explanation:

In a three-stage eBGP IP Clos, a leaf typically learns the same prefix through multiple spines, and those spines are commonly in different AS numbers (a standard Clos pattern for simplified operations and fault isolation). To install multiple equal-cost eBGP paths for the same destination, Junos requires BGP multipath and, when the candidate paths come from different neighbor ASs, you must use the multiple-as capability (expressed as "multipath multiple-as" in many designs) to bypass the default same-neighbor-AS restriction for multipath selection. This ensures multiple eligible eBGP next-hops can be accepted as equal-cost paths and installed.

Separately, to actually perform load balancing in the forwarding plane across those installed next-hops, Junos uses a load-balancing policy that is applied to the forwarding table via routing-options forwarding-table export <policy>. This policy (for example, per-packet or consistent-hash variants, depending on platform and intent) activates the forwarding behavior needed to distribute traffic over the ECMP set.

A "load-balance policy applied to the BGP group" is not the required mechanism for ECMP forwarding behavior in this context, and multihop is unnecessary in a Clos underlay because neighbors are typically directly connected.

NEW QUESTION # 64

You are using tags within Juniper Apstra for searching information in the blueprint about existing elements.

In this scenario, what is another construct that uses tags?

- A. tenants
- B. configlets
- C. services
- D. device context

Answer: C

Explanation:

In Juniper Apstra, tags are used not only for searching and filtering blueprint elements (like interfaces, generic systems, and virtual networks) but are also applied to services. This allows for better organization, classification, and management of services within the blueprint.

NEW QUESTION # 65

You are assigning managed devices to a blueprint, for a fully functioning IP fabric.

In the Juniper Apstra UI, which mode should you choose for this task?

- A. Ready
- B. Drain
- C. Deploy
- D. Not Set

Answer: C

Explanation:
When assigning managed devices to a blueprint in Juniper Apstra for a fully functioning IP fabric, the correct mode is Deploy. This ensures that the devices are active participants in the fabric, receiving the intended configuration and forwarding traffic as designed.

NEW QUESTION # 66
In Juniper Apstra, what are three valid deploy modes when assigning systems to your blueprint?
(Choose three.)

- A. Drain
- B. Deploy
- C. Ready
- D. Standby
- E. OOS-Ready

Answer: A,B,C
