NEW QUESTION # 436

Data Policy can enforce mandatory data on import.

- A. False
- B. True

Answer: B

Explanation:

A Data Policy in ServiceNow is used to enforce mandatory and read-only field conditions for data that is entered manually through forms or imported into the system.

Data Policies apply to data coming from external sources, such as imports, web services (API), and integrations.

If a field is set as mandatory in a Data Policy, records cannot be imported unless that field contains a value.

This ensures data integrity by preventing incomplete or invalid data from entering the system.

If an administrator configures a Data Policy to make the "Caller" field mandatory on the Incident table, any imported incidents without a Caller value will be rejected.

How Data Policies Enforce Mandatory Data on Import: Example Scenario:

Why "True" is the Correct answer: Data Policies enforce mandatory fields for both UI entry and imports.

Why "False" is Incorrect: If Data Policies did not enforce mandatory fields on imports, incomplete records could enter the system, leading to data integrity issues.

ServiceNow Documentation: Data Policies

CSA Exam Guide: Covers Data Policy enforcement for UI forms and imports.

Reference from CSA Documentation: Thus, the correct answer is:

A: True
