NEW QUESTION # 104

Nijenhuis Bruch is currently creating a program of operational loss data collection at a bank with a large branch network. Which minimal data standards should this collection approach include to meet minimum loss data collecting standards?

- A. Reports should be designed to be shared with external data loss consortia recipients.
- B. Reports should capture the date of the event, the amount of loss, and recoveries of gross loss amounts.
- C. Reports should only include the actual loss date.
- D. Reports should capture both the date of the event and the amount of loss.

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 105

Gamma Bank provides a $100,000 loan to Big Bath retail stores at 5% interest rate (paid annually). The loan is collateralized with $55,000. The loan also has an annual expected default rate of 2%, and loss given default at 50%. In this case, what will the bank's exposure at default (EAD) be?

- A. $25,000
- B. $105,000
- C. $75,000
- D. $50,000

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 106

A customer asks a broker employed by AlphaBank to buy Eureka Corporation bonds for her account. While this trade was executed correctly and the bonds were bought, the trade was mistakenly accounted for as a sell order. If the price of Eureka Corporation bonds goes up, this trade would result in a significantly larger loss than if the market had remained stable. However, if the market drops, the customer will benefit from the incorrect accounting and gain from this trade. This trading scenario can serve as an example that

- A. Credit risk in this transaction can magnify operational risk.
- B. Liquidity risk in this transaction can magnify operational risk.
- C. Market risk in this transaction can magnify operational risk.
- D. Strategic risk in this transaction can magnify operational risk.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 107

Which of the activities represent examples of market manipulation?

- A. Short squeeze
- B. Market gap
- C. Crowded trades
- D. Stop-loss order

Answer: A

Explanation:

Market manipulation refers to deliberate actions taken to deceive or mislead investors by affecting the supply, demand, or price of securities. Here are the activities considered:

* Market gap: This refers to the difference between the closing price of one trading session and the opening price of the next session. It is not inherently a form of market manipulation.

* Crowded trades: These occur when a large number of market participants take the same position in a security. While this can influence prices, it is not a deliberate act of manipulation.

* Short squeeze: This occurs when a heavily shorted stock suddenly increases in price, forcing short

* sellers to buy back shares to cover their positions, further driving up the price. This can be orchestrated to create rapid price increases, qualifying as market manipulation.

* Stop-loss order: This is an order placed with a broker to buy or sell once the stock reaches a certain price. It is a risk management tool and not a form of manipulation.

Therefore, a short squeeze is an example of market manipulation.
