Fortinet FCSS - Enterprise Firewall 7.6 Administrator Sample Questions (Q117-Q122):

NEW QUESTION # 117

Refer to the exhibit.

The network diagram shows the addition of Site 2 with an overlapping network segment to the existing VPN IPsec connection between the hub and Site 1.

Which IPsec phase 2 configuration must you make on the FortiGate hub to enable equal-cost multi-path (ECMP) routing when multiple remote sites connect with overlapping subnets?

- A. Set multipath to enable
- B. Set net-device to ecmp
- C. Set route-overlap to allow
- D. Set route-overlap to either use-new or use-old

Answer: D

Explanation:

When multiple IPsec phase 2 tunnels on the hub use overlapping remote subnets, FortiGate must be told how to handle duplicate routes for those selectors. Setting route-overlap to use-new or use-old controls acceptance of overlapping routes so the hub can keep the relevant routes and use them for parallel path selection such as ECMP.

NEW QUESTION # 118

Which action should you take after applying a block-all IPS profile that caused applications to stop working?

- A. Enable flow mode
- B. Remove server targets

- C. Use monitor mode
- D. Disable IPS

Answer: C

Explanation:

In high-security environments, applying a restrictive IPS profile can sometimes lead to false positives, where legitimate application traffic is incorrectly identified as a threat and blocked. The standard troubleshooting procedure is to change the signature action to monitor mode.

Monitor mode allows the traffic to pass through while still generating logs in FortiAnalyzer or the FortiGate dashboard. By reviewing these logs, an administrator can identify the exact signature ID causing the issue and subsequently create an IPS sensor override or exception for that specific traffic, ensuring the application works while maintaining security for other threats.

NEW QUESTION # 119

How would fec-ingress and fec-sgress IPsec configuration affect an IPsec tunnel?

- A. FortiGate will consider all IKEV2 packets as fragmentable.
- B. FortiGate will add additional redundant information to reconstruct any lost or erratically received packets.
- C. When an FGSP member in FortiGate fails, FortiGate flushes the corresponding tunnels and sends out dead peer detection probes to find unavailable remote peers.
- D. If fragmentation occurs, FortiGate will allow the packets at the IKE layer.

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 120

Refer to the exhibit, which shows the HA status of an active-passive cluster.

An administrator wants FortiGate_B to handle the Core2 VDOM traffic.

Which modification must the administrator apply to achieve this?

- A. The administrator must disable override on FortiGate_A.
- B. The administrator must change the priority from 100 to 160 for FortiGate_B.
- C. The administrator must change the priority from 128 to 200 for FortiGate_B.
- D. The administrator must change the load balancing method on FortiGate_B.

Answer: C

Explanation:

The exhibit shows an active-passive HA (high availability) cluster with two virtual clusters, where FortiGate_A is the primary device for both Core1 and Core2. If the goal is to have FortiGate_B take over Core2 traffic, its priority must be higher than FortiGate_A for Virtual Cluster 2.

Currently, FortiGate_A has a priority of 150 for Core2, while FortiGate_B has 128. Increasing FortiGate_B's priority to 200 ensures it becomes the primary for Virtual Cluster 2, taking over the Core2 VDOM traffic while keeping Core1 traffic on FortiGate_A.

Disabling override would prevent forced failovers but wouldn't change the role distribution. Adjusting the load-balancing method is irrelevant in an active-passive setup, as it only applies to active-active configurations.

NEW QUESTION # 121

Based on the TLS handshake shown, what can be inferred about the client?

- A. Supports SSLv3
- B. Supports TLS 1.0 only
- C. Supports DTLS
- D. Supports TLS 1.2 and TLS 1.3

Answer: D
