ISQI ISTQB Foundation Level - Acceptance Testing Sample Questions (Q63-Q68):

NEW QUESTION # 63

Which one of the following statements regarding the quality of requirements is MOST correct?

- A. Testers may complete unclear requirements by assumptions, as long as they discuss those assumptions with at least one stakeholder.
- B. INVEST is a technique that ensure the quality of user stories or requirements, thus replacing regular reviews.
- C. Vague or ambiguous requirements may lead to misunderstandings both during implementation and testing.
- D. In Agile development lifecycle models, requirement engineering becomes less important due to the product owner role.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 64

Given the following attributes:

- i. commercializability
- ii. functional suitability
- iii. viability
- iv. reliability
- v. security
- vi. cognitive ability
- vii. maintainability

Which one of the following answers contains quality attributes that are MOST relevant for acceptance testing?

- A. ii, v and vi
- B. i, ii and vi
- C. ii, v and vii
- D. iii, iv and v

Answer: C

Explanation:

Acceptance testing primarily focuses on verifying whether a system meets agreed-upon requirements and satisfies the business and user needs. Quality attributes (also known as non-functional requirements) play a vital role in defining the completeness of the acceptance testing process.

Let's analyze the options:

ii. Functional suitability - directly relates to whether the system provides the correct functions as per business needs. Essential in acceptance testing.

v. Security - ensures that the system is protected against unauthorized access or data breaches. Often critical for business stakeholders.

vii. Maintainability - reflects how easily the system can be modified. Relevant in acceptance if maintainability requirements are part of contractual criteria.

Thus, Option B (ii, v, vii) contains three attributes that are very relevant for acceptance testing.

Other options:

A includes vi (cognitive ability), which is not a standard ISO 25010 quality attribute.

C includes i (commercializability) - not a system quality attribute defined in ISO 25010.

D includes iii (viability) - more of a business or market consideration, not system testability.

B). ii, v and vii

NEW QUESTION # 65

Which of the following statements corresponds BEST to a UX requirement analysis activity?

- A. Security requirements are derived from usage scenarios.
- B. User profiles are used to determine different levels of business knowledge.
- C. Personas are used to analyze products or solutions from competitors.
- D. Environmental conditions such as light conditions are obtained from a task analysis.

Answer: D

Explanation:

UX (User Experience) requirement analysis involves studying the context in which users will interact with a system. This includes analyzing:

Who the users are (personas/user profiles)

What tasks they perform (task analysis)

Where and how they perform them (environmental conditions)

Option D is correct because task analysis in UX encompasses understanding the user's physical and digital environment.

Environmental conditions (e.g., lighting, noise, interruptions) are important for designing accessible and effective interfaces.

Let's review other options:

A is partially correct but not fully aligned - personas describe user archetypes, not primarily competitor analysis.

B refers to user profiling but interprets it narrowly. Business knowledge is only one part of profiling.

C confuses security with UX. Security requirements often come from risk analysis, not usage scenarios.

D). Environmental conditions such as light conditions are obtained from a task analysis.

NEW QUESTION # 66

Which of the following statements about test approaches and test techniques for acceptance testing is MOST correct?

- A. The review of user requirements / user stories and associated acceptance criteria avoids dynamic acceptance testing
- B. If exploratory tests are performed, then there is no need to cover the acceptance criteria
- C. The refinement of requirements / user stories into acceptance criteria provides test conditions for the creation of acceptance tests
- D. Code coverage and Test-Driven Development are generally combined with boundary value analysis in acceptance testing

Answer: C

Explanation:

In ISTQB Acceptance Testing context, the process of refining requirements or user stories into acceptance criteria plays a crucial role in defining clear, testable conditions. These acceptance criteria act as the basis for deriving test conditions, which are in turn used to design acceptance test cases.

According to the ISTQB Foundation Level Acceptance Testing syllabus:

"Acceptance criteria are refined expressions of business requirements, and they help to determine the scope and intent of acceptance tests. These criteria are used to derive test conditions and guide the development of test cases." This alignment ensures that the delivered software meets the expectations set out in the requirements and satisfies the user needs. Acceptance tests are typically written from the user's perspective and are focused on verifying that the system behaves correctly in realistic business scenarios.

Option B is correct because it explicitly describes this logical and procedural relationship between user stories, acceptance criteria, and acceptance tests.

Other options are incorrect or misleading:

A is incorrect: reviewing requirements does not eliminate the need for dynamic testing.

C is incorrect: code coverage is more relevant for unit or system-level testing, not acceptance testing.

D is incorrect: exploratory testing is a valuable supplement but does not replace the need to verify acceptance criteria.

NEW QUESTION # 67

As an acceptance tester you want to test the $100 withdrawal process described by the following Business Process Model and Notation (BPMN) model.

You would like to achieve the following coverage criterion "execute all possible process tasks". Consider the following test cases:

Test 1: balance = $100, receipt = YES

Test 2: balance = $120, receipt = NO

Test 3: balance = $85

Test 4: balance = $20, receipt = YES

Which of the following is the minimal set of test cases allowing to achieve required coverage?

- A. Test 1, Test 2, Test 4

- B. Test 1, Test 2, Test 3
- C. Test 1, Test 3
- D. Test 2, Test 4

Answer: C
