Which Salesforce API should an Integration Architect use to meet the requirement?

- A. SOAP API
- B. Tooling API
- C. Analytics REST API
- D. Metadata API

Answer: B

Explanation:

Explanation

Option D is correct because Tooling API is the Salesforce API that can be used to retrieve code coverage and test results for Apex classes and triggers. Tooling API provides REST and SOAP interfaces to access metadata about code, execute tests, and get test results¹² Option A is incorrect because SOAP API is a Salesforce API that can be used to create, retrieve, update, or delete records, but not to get code coverage and test results. SOAP API uses a WSDL file to define the parameters for accessing data through the API¹³ Option B is incorrect because Analytics REST API is a Salesforce API that can be used to access data from reports and dashboards, but not from code coverage and test results. Analytics REST API provides a programmatic way to interact with analytics features such as lenses, datasets, and dashboards⁴ Option C is incorrect because Metadata API is a Salesforce API that can be used to retrieve, deploy, create, update, or delete customization information, such as custom object definitions and page layouts, but not code coverage and test results. Metadata API is mainly used for development tools or backup tools⁵ References: 1: Introducing Tooling API 2: Tooling API Examples 3: SOAP API Developer Guide 4: Analytics REST API Developer Guide 5: Metadata API Developer Guide

NEW QUESTION # 17

A company has an external system that processes and tracks orders. Sales reps manage their leads and opportunity pipeline in Salesforce. In the current state, the two systems are disconnected and processing orders requires a lot of manual entry on sales rep part. This creates delays in processing orders and incomplete data due to manual entry.

As a part of modernization efforts the company decided to integrate Salesforce and the order management system. The following technical requirements were identified:

1. Orders need to be created in real time from salesforce
2. Minimal customization*, and code should be written due to a tight timeline and lack of developer resources
3. Sales reps need to be able to see order history and be able to see most up to date information on current order status.
4. Managers need to be able to run reports in Salesforce to see daily and monthly order volumes and fulfillment timelines.
5. The legacy system is hosted on premise and is currently connected to the Enterprise Service Bus (ESB). The ESB is flexible enough to provide any methods and connection types needed by salesforce team
6. There are 1000 sales reps. Each user processes/creates on average 15 orders per shift. Most of the orders contain 20-30 line items.

How should an integration architect integrate the two systems based on the technical requirements and system constraints?

- A. Use Salesforce big object, SOAP API and Dataloader.
- B. Use Salesforce standard object, REST API and ETL.
- C. Use Salesforce external object and OData connector.
- D. Use Salesforce custom object, custom REST API and ETL.
